H. W. Hudspec Killed,
Man and Two Girls Hurt,
When Car Lunges Over Embankment.

FIVE POINTS CRASH
LEAVES TWO INJURED

H. Reeves Held Under
$3,000 Bond for Crashing Into Man and Girl Pedestrians.

One person is dead and five others, including three women, are seriously injured as the result of two automobile accidents occurring at almost identically the same hour in separate sections of the city Tuesday night.

The dead man has been identified by police as H. W. Hudspec, 25, of 38 McDonough street, although two of his three companions declare his name is Raymond Simpson. A bank book and several letters in the man's pocket contain the name of H. W. Hud-spec, and officers investigating the accident believe this to be the dead man's correct name.

Says Car Was Speeding.
According to eye-witnesses to the accident, which occurred on Georgia avenue at Cherokee at 10:30 o'clock, the automobile in which were the dead man and his three companions,
H. L. Roper, of 101 Griffin street;
Miss Billie McKinney, 352 Whitehall street, and Miss Cora Morris, of 92 Orange street, was running at an excessive rate of speed and plunged over an embankment at the foot of Georgia avenue.

An odor of whisky in the demolished machine led police to believe that the driver of the automobile was intoxicated and was responsible for its leaving the highway. Hudspec's neck was broken and he died instantly. Roper, who is thought to have been driving the automobile, is suffering from serious internal injuries and physicians at Grady hospital had not determined at an early hour this morning the exact nature of his hurts.

Girls Locked Up.
Miss Cora Morris, who gave her age as 22 years, was badly injured about the face and she suffered a serious laceration of the scalp. Miss McKinney's injuries consisted of bruises and minor cuts about the body.
She was attended at Grady hospital with the others and afterwards removed to the police station, where charges of drunk and disorderly conduct were docketed against her. Similar charges will be made against the other two when they are able to leave the hospital, police asserted.

At almost the same minute as the accident on Georgia avenue, Miss Ellen Shelton, of 126 South Pryor street, and her escort, J. W. Barrantyne, of 249 Centerville street, were struck by an automobile driven by H. Reeves, of 369 Hill street, in front of the Schulte cigar store at Five Points.
Both were rushed to Grady hospital in an unconscious condition.

Knocked 10 Feet.
Miss Shelton's injuries consist of serious internal injuries and severe bruises about the head and body. Her companion suffered a dislocated shoulder and was injured about the head.
Both are said to have been knocked a distance of about ten feet by the automobile.

Charges of drunkenness and driving an automobile while intoxicated were preferred against Reeves at the police station, his bond being fixed at $3,000.
The latter is an employee of the public works department of the city of Atlanta.

Now Pancho Villa,
Erstwhile Bandit,
Becomes Banker

El Paso, Texas, December 5.—
"From Bandit to Banker," may be the title of an inspirational book for boys written by some enterprising Mexican writer about Pancho Villa.
Pancho, it is learned Tuesday, is about to open a bank, which he will finance with money the Mexican government pays him for refraining from starting or joining any more revolutions.

The Villa bank will open its doors
at Barral, Chihuahua, on Janu-

CLEMENCEAU PAYS CALL OF COURTESY AT WHITE HOUSE

Tiger Emphasized Visit to President Was Merely Social Call, As Private Citizen.

SERIOUS PROBLEMS
WERE NOT DISCUSSED

The Famous Frenchman Spends Full Day Sightseeing—Calls on Ex-President Wilson Today.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Washington, December 5.—Georges Clemenceau visited the white house today and talked with President Harding for 40 minutes. But the subject nearest his heart—American participation in European affairs—did not come up.

The visit was described at the white house as merely a social call of courtesy at which, it was said, serious problems of state were not discussed.

The Tiger said tonight it was "a delightful visit," during which he gave the president his views about European conditions in general. He emphasized that he did not ask the president for any assurances, pointing out that he was merely a private citizen of France, and asserting he had not come "to preach to the president, but to pay my regards."

No After Effects.
If Clemenceau's picture of conditions overseas had any effect on the administration's foreign policies, it was not indicated later on. "With respect to the Lausanne conference, full participation in which has been suggested by Clemenceau, the president was said to feel that every proper influence of this government—and this influence was described as great—already was being exerted in a manner believed to be in harmony with the best judgment of the world statesmen who were fully in touch with the situation."

As to the question of American mandates over territory once a part of the Ottoman empire, the president was said to "rejoice" that the United States had not assumed such a responsibility. The executive was represented as feeling that America could not take upon its shoulders responsibility for directing the affairs of the world.

Clemenceau apparently enjoyed his talk with the president, which was the first event of a full day. He was smiling broadly when he emerged from the executive offices, where he had been received and chatted casually with Jules J. Jusserand, the French ambassador who had presented him, that he forgot his hat and had to return for it.

Poses With Crown.
But his smile vanished when he saw the usual battery of motion picture figures and still camera men lined up. He posed for a moment with a crown and then entered his limousine, while several hundred persons who had collected to get a glimpse of him cheered.

It had been expected that the French war premier would drive to Woodrow Wilson's 8 street home from the white house but the visit was postponed until tomorrow to serve the former president's convenience.
So the Tiger went sightseeing.

Ambassador Jusserand took him first to the Lincoln memorial. He

CONFESSION SOLVES SLAYING MYSTERY, DECLARE POLICE

Chicago, December 5.—The mystery surrounding the slaying of Josephus Lanus, wealthy automobile dealer, on November 24, was solved today, the police announced, by the confession of Laurence Heffernan, one of the seven persons under arrest, that the victim was shot and killed in an attempted robbery. Lanus shot one of the robbers.

According to the police, Heffernan,
William Cramer and two other members of the band entered Lanus' saloon and pretended to want to purchase a car. At the rear of the saloon Cramer was said to have stepped behind Lanus and placed a revolver against his back and ordered him to put up his hands.

Lanus drew a revolver and fired
two shots as he himself was shot twice in the back. Cramer was wounded. The robbers fled, leaving Lanus dead.

PROGRESSIVE BLOC RUNS INTO SNAG AT WHITE HOUSE

Harding Spokesman Says President Is Opposed to the Legislative Changes Sponsored by Radicals.

ELECTORAL COLLEGE
ABOLITION WANTED

Program Also Would Make Presidential Inauguration in January Instead of March Fourth.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Washington, December 5.—Members of the new progressive bloc in congress got into action today but at the very outset ran into white house opposition.

Led by Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, bloc members on the senate agriculture committee obtained a favorable report for a constitutional amendment providing for abolition of the electoral college and for direct election of president and vice president and for abolition of the long period of time elapsing between the congressional election and the regular meeting of the new congress. Such an amendment forms one of the planks
in the platform adopted by the bloc
at its organization meeting last week.

Opposition of Mr. Harding to any such change in the legislation was expressed by a white house spokesman soon after the agriculture committee resolution was laid before the senate and assigned to a place on the calendar. Some administration leaders in the senate likewise voiced their disapproval of the amendment and tonight it appeared that any efforts by the bloc to press the proposal might bring on a fight which would test
the power of the progressive faction.

Specific Provision.
The proposed amendment would provide specifically that "the choice of each state for president and vice president shall be determined at a general election of the qualified electors of such state," thus permitting voters to cast their ballots directly for president and vice president. The vote would be canvassed by the senate and house meeting in joint session,
each state being given as many votes for the purpose as it has senators and representatives.

If such a canvass by states should disclose a lack of a majority, then the president would be chosen by a majority vote of the house "from the persons having the highest numbers."

Auto Accidents Greatest Menace Of Day, He Says

Statistician Draws Alarming
Picture of Fast-Growing Death Rate in U. S.

BY WILL JOHNSON.
United News Staff Correspondent.
New York, December 5.—The United States is in the grip of an automobile menace more grave than any existing plague. Practically nothing is being done about it, but the point where the country will rise in wrath and demand immediate action is near at hand.

These are the views of Dr. Louis
I. Dublin, chairman of the accident statistics committee of the public safety section of the national safety council, and statistician of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company of New York. Interviewed by the United News he drew the most alarming picture yet presented to the public being wrought by unrestrained and indiscriminate automobile traffic throughout this country.

Dr. Dublin estimated that between 13,000 and 14,000 persons will have been killed in the United States by automobiles for the year 1922—an increase of 50 per cent over 1921.

SOUTHERN COTTON COMMISSION TO BE PERMANENT BODY

Conference at Memphis Unanimously Approves Legislation to Make Organization Continuous.

MAIN PURPOSE FIGHT AGAINST INSECT PESTS

Will Consider the Cotton Growers' Problem and Suggest Remedies for Evils of Industry.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Memphis, Tenn., December 5.—
Permanent organization of the Southern Cotton commission, which for two years has operated as an unofficial body, to consider the problems of the cotton growers and to suggest remedies for many of the ills from which the industry has suffered, was unanimously decided upon at the closing session of the committee here late today.

Legislation providing for the continuance of the organization, with its membership named by the governors or legislatures of the cotton producing states, was drafted and approved and will be submitted to the various legislatures at the earliest possible moment.

Taking for granted the adoption of such legislation, the permanent organization was formed with R. O. Everett, Durham, N. C., as chairman, and Thomas B. King, of Memphis, as secretary.

A legislative program for the cotton producing states, which will have the backing of the commission, and which looks toward closer co-operation of the states with the United States department of agriculture, in all matters relating to the eradication of control of crop pests, quarantine laws,
and also for making the recommendations of the department and of the cotton commission effective in the various states, was drafted and approved.

It was the understanding of the delegates, officers said, that each state would seek to have adopted that part of this legislative program which was needed to supplement or strengthen existing laws, or which might be made necessary by developments in the future.

The commission went on record as strongly endorsing any legislation which would provide for more research work, both by the department of agriculture and the states, which would aid the cotton growers in increasing or improving his yield, or in the control of insect pests. The pressing need for additional experimental work for the study of cotton enemies and diseases was stressed.

Wallace Pledges Aid.
At the closing session, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace pledged the support of his department to the proposed plans for aiding the cotton growers.

The situation brought about by the limited supply of calcium arsenate,
the most effective poison yet found in fighting the boll weevil, was discussed at length. Government experts had warned that the arsenate supply in sight would suffice to treat only a small percentage of the cotton area in the south.

Resolutions adopted to co-operate with the United States department of agriculture and the various state officials in securing the largest possible supply of arsenate. Where an adequate supply of the poison is not available to cotton growers, the resolutions urge that cultural directions found by the department of agriculture to control to some extent the ravages of the weevil be adopted by the planters. These measures involve expensive planting, the planting of the same varieties in each community, heavy fertilization, and the destruction of the cotton plants as early as possible after the cotton is picked.

Pink Boll Worm.
In connection with the spread of the pink boll worm, the resolutions recommended immediate and drastic action to control the movement of the pest, and all states not having rigid quarantine laws governing the control of insect pests are urged to adopt measures similar to that now in effect in Texas.

In connection with this pest establishment of "non-cotton growing zones" is suggested wherever necessary, with arrangements for the adequate compensation of the owners for losses sustained.

More stringent laws governing and safeguarding the purity and standards of all insecticides used in fighting cotton pests are suggested, and the statutes of Alabama on this subject are cited as worthy of adoption by other states.

In closing, the resolutions highly commend the work of the bureau of entomology of the United States department of agriculture in co-operating with growers in the campaign against enemies of the cotton plant, and urge that the appropriation for the research and experimental work of this bureau be largely increased by congress. Closer co-operation between the growers of cotton and the forces of the department of agriculture is also urged.

STATE OFFICIALS WARNED TO CHECK EXODUS OF LABOR

Unlicensed Labor Agents Are Operating Throughout Georgia, Commissioner Stanley Says.

NO AGENT IN STATE
LICENSED TO OPERATE

United States Bureau of Agriculture Gives Basis to Report That Laborers Are Emigrating.

Warnings to county officials and civic organizations of Georgia to watch out for the operations of labor agents who have not qualified to serve in this work under the state law were sent out Tuesday by Hal M. Stanley, state commissioner of commerce and labor.
Mr. Stanley took this action after he had found that a considerable exodus of labor which will be badly needed next spring has taken place in recent months. Many of the laborers who have left the state were taken away by labor agents.

Along with the warning of Commissioner Stanley came the news reported by the Associated Press that there has been a considerable exodus of farm labor from the cotton belt due to the recent damages of the boll weevil.

In explaining the qualifications required of labor agents Mr. Stanley said they must pay a tax of $1,000 in each county in which they operate;
must register with the ordinary and must obtain a license from the department of commerce and labor.

No Authorized Agents.
"At the present time there is not a labor agent in the state authorized to transact such business," Mr. Stanley declared.

It is pointed out that a person
must obtain a license from the department even in cases where such person desires to obtain labor for his own use.

WOULD SAVE HUGE SUM TO FARMERS

Bankers and Textile Men
Launch Move to Save Millions for the Cotton Raisers.

Athens, Ga., December 5.—(Special).—Millions of dollars will be saved Georgia farmers, who are losing approximately one cent per pound
by neglecting the cultivation of a high grade staple cotton, if plans advanced at a meeting of bankers, textile men and cotton merchants from all parts of the state, held here Tuesday, are carried through.

Georgia agriculturists are facing annually a terrific loss, it was ascertained, and to stop this, the Georgia State College of Agriculture urges raising of a $25,000 sum each year for ten years, during which time farmers of Georgia and the entire south,
if possible, would be given the benefit of research work by experts and a carefully and scientifically prepared program.

"The state of Georgia is losing millions of dollars by gradual decline in the grade of cotton brought about by the use of a poor type of seed," declared Dr. Andrew M. Soule, who termed this one of the "most serious economic problems" of the south.

After the all-day conference held Tuesday at which time Dr. Andrew
M. Soule, professors J. R. Fain and
R. E. Ward, of the Agricultural college, presented a plan to get concerted action in standardizing the cotton seed in Georgia and perhaps the entire southeast, it was decided to bring the matter before all of the bankers, cotton brokers and textile men in Georgia in order to raise the funds necessary to carry forward the work begun by the State College of Agriculture.

A meeting will be held at the office of the commercial exchange in Atlanta Thursday at which time Dr.
Soule will present the problem and plan to that organization as a whole.
Those who attended the meeting were T. B. Moncrief, LaGrange; D. H.

PHILLIPS ASSERTS HE HAD NO PART IN WIFE'S ESCAPE

Clara Phillips, "Hammer Slayer," Still at Large,
After Escape From Los Angeles Jail.

FILED BARS OF CELL
AND FLED IN AUTO

Investigators Say Woman
Had Several Helpers on Outside—Police Use
Planes in Chase.

STATE'S WITNESS
ALSO DISAPPEARS

Los Angeles, December 5.—The mystery of the jail delivery of Clara Phillips, convicted "hammer murderess," deepened Tuesday night when it was learned that Mrs. Peggy Caffee had disappeared under mysterious circumstances.

Early in the morning, less than two hours after the escape, Peggy called the sheriff's office on the telephone and screamed a hysterical appeal for protection. She gave no explanation and hung up the receiver immediately.

Deputies were rushed to the address Mrs. Caffee gave them. It was found to be an apartment house at Long Beach, but the deputies could not find her. Unaware of the escape of Mrs. Phillips, they returned and gave the incident no further thought, but now the police believe that the "gentle woman" may have weakened vengeance on Peggy and then escaped to Mexico.

During the trial Mrs. Phillips swore eternal vengeance against the chum who had testified against her.

When Clara was sentenced Peggy appealed to the judge to see that she was kept in the penitentiary for life.

"If she ever gets out, she'll kill me," Peggy told the court. "I know it!"

Los Angeles, Cal., December 5.—Armour L. Phillips, whose wife, Clara Phillips, convicted murderer, escaped from the Los Angeles county jail last night, appeared at the office of her attorney late today and sent word to the sheriff's office he was ready to be interviewed about the escape.

Phillips later made a statement in which he said he knew nothing about the escape or where his wife had gone. He gave a detailed account of his movements for the past 24 hours.
Yesterday morning Phillips said, he went to the county jail to visit his wife. While he was there she asked him to take a message to her attorney Bertram Herrington. Upon leaving the jail, thereafter he went to Her-rington's office and delivered the message, the nature of which he did not disclose.

Moves After "Argument."
Then he said he went to a hotel and engaged a room, after which he went to the home of Mrs. Phillips' mother and sisters, where he had been staying, arriving there about 7 o'clock last night. About 8:30 o'clock he left there, he added, telling the women that he was moving downtown, but without giving them his new address.

Phillips explained that he had had "an argument with the family" and on that account had decided to move.

Upon reaching his hotel he got in touch with some of his friends, he said, and about 10:30 o'clock went out with them and afterwards returning to his room about 11:30 o'clock and went to bed.

The first inkling he had of Mrs.
Phillips' escape, he declared, came through the headlines of today's papers.

Phones Attended.
His first move upon learning of the jail break was to telephone Herrington, he said, and after conversing with him over the wire for a few minutes he went to Herrington's office and there continued the conference which resulted several hours later in a message to the sheriff's office that Phillips was "ready to tell what he knew about the escape."

A. I. Manning, chief of the criminal investigation department of the sheriff's office, said tonight he was satisfied Mrs. Phillips either was in Los Angeles or California or was making her way there.

"If she does, we will get her beyond a doubt," he declared. "Every point
she could possibly hide there is being watched."

Announce Program For Grand Opera Here Next April

GEORGIA BAPTISTS
CONSIDER MERGING COLLEGE BOARDS

Mercer-Bessie Tift Com-

Officers of Convention to Be Nominated.

$75,000,000 CAMPAIGN
REPORT TO BE MADE

Results of Third Year's Collection Termed Satisfactory—Preconvention Conference Held.

BY LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Promptly at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning Dr. John D. Mell will call the one hundred and first annual session of the Baptist convention of the state of Georgia to order.
The meeting place is the main auditorium of the Baptist tabernacle, at 75 Luckie street.

Immediately upon the opening of the session the messengers will be asked to name the officers for this convention. The method of election is by nomination from the floor and vote by ballot if more than one person is nominated for one office.

The present officers of the convention are John D. Mell, Athens, president; A. W. Evans, Spadesville; Graham Forester, Montezuma;
Lewis A. Henderson, Columbus;
Frank M. Oliver, Savannah, vice-presidents; B. D. Ragsdale, Macon, secretary; W. T. Grande, Statesboro, assistant secretary, and E. J. Forrester, Sparta, treasurer.

Dr. Mell has been president of the convention since 1912 and Dr. Ragsdale has been secretary since 1895.
The vice presidents hold office only for one year. Dr. Forester has been treasurer for more than a dozen years. It is likely that these men will be re-elected.

President to Speak.
Following the election of officers
the convention will hear an address by the president. This is a new order for the convention, but generally regarded as a much desired order in the program, and so the committee on the order of business is suggesting that the convention shall hear from the president this year with the hope that it may become a permanent item in the annual sessions of the body.

Dr. Arch C. Cree, executive secretary of the convention, has for the past two years given a review of the work of the executive board of the convention.

EAST POINT BONDS WIN IN ELECTION

Heaviest Registration and Vote

Opera company must close contracts with Mme. Jeritza, Mme. Galli-Curci and others to keep them over in this country for this engagement.

The Atlanta Music Festival association has been approached by many people who have never been on the guarantee list before and who wish to go on this year. We have decided to issue a public invitation to the people of Atlanta who desire to participate in bringing this wonderful selection of artists and operas to Atlanta to send in their names at once to Colonel W. L. Peck, Peters building, Atlanta. No guarantee will be accepted for less than $200, but the point must be strongly emphasized that this guarantee must be raised very promptly in order that the necessary contracts can be closed," Mr. Bidwell said.

Lost Money Only Once.

In the 12 seasons of opera Atlanta has enjoyed the guarantees have been called on but once. On this occasion they were asked to pay only 25 per cent of their subscription. This is really a wonderful record and has never been approached in this country anywhere. It really amounts to about 2 per cent a year deficit, according to Mr. Bidwell.

Announcement that Mme. Jeritza alone is coming to Atlanta would be a notable event in southern musical circles but with the additional stars coming with her, including the new soprano and tenors with three operas to be sung here for the first time, the advance outline of the program is expected to create widespread interest throughout the south.

Slender Prima Donna.

Mme. Jeritza's first appearance in New York with the Metropolitan Opera company in "The Dead City" was hailed by the critics as the greatest individual triumph since Emma Calvé's debut. Possessing a voice of rare quality, Mme. Jeritza also exhibits unusual dramatic power and grace. She is on the "soprano" order of beauty, being one of the few operatic stars who are of the slender type. Prior to her New York engagement, she was the outstanding star of the Vienna opera.

Sharing the fame of Mme. Jeritza is Barbara Kemp, who will come to this country in January for her first engagement. She will sing with the Metropolitan in New York until that company comes to Atlanta in April and will come here with that company.

Mme. Jeritza will sing in two operas, as will Miss Kemp. In her first Atlanta appearance, Mme. Jeritza will sing "Tosca" in Puccini's tense and dramatic opera of the same name. Her second appearance will be in the title role of "Thais," Jules Massenet's opera, which has proved to be his most popular composition among American audiences. This will be the first time "Thais" has ever been sung in Atlanta by the Metropolitan company.

Galli-Curci in "Lucia."

Miss Kemp will sing in the ever popular "Aida" by Verdi and Meyerbeer's "L'Africain," both of which have been sung by the Metropolitan in Atlanta, although it was many years ago that "L'Africain" was offered.

Mme. Galli-Curci is scheduled to appear in the favorite "Lucia de Lammermoor," an opera in which she has won some of her most notable triumphs. In this opera Lauri-Volpi, the new tenor, and DeLuca will sing important roles. M. Lauri-Volpi also will sing in "Tosca" with Mme. Jeritza on the opening night, according to the tentative program.

Two other operas to be sung here for the first time will be Gounod's famous "Romeo et Juliette," which is based on Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet," and which follows closely the action of the drama, and "William Tell," Rossini's inspiring masterpiece.

In "Romeo et Juliette" will be found Luceria Boyl, Gligi and DeLuca in leading roles, while the principal parts in "William Tell" will be handled by Marinelli, Danie and a soprano yet to be selected.

Old Stars to Return.

Among the old favorites who have won enduring popularity in Atlanta, who are to return under the proposed arrangement, besides Mme. Galli-Curci are Gligi, Scotti, Bori, DeLuca, Harold, Danie, Martinelli, Burke, and a host of others.

It is conceded that this program, including the new stars and the new operas, is one of the most pleasing ever announced for the Atlanta season and the officers of the Atlanta Music Festival association are hopeful that the required guarantee will be subscribed quickly.

With this program the association officials feel sure that the new season will be set in many ways, both artistically and financially, and express the view that Atlanta people will readily respond with the guarantee so that the contracts can be closed and preparations begun for what probably will be the most successful season of grand opera ever enjoyed in the south.

Clean

One of the many reasons Southern women prefer Clausen's Cake is that the one-pound package in which it comes is germ and dust proof. You get the cake just as it comes from the oven, fresh, clean, delicious. No flies, no hands, no dust. The paper in which it is wrapped is especially prepared and guarantees purity to you. Be sure you get Clausen's Cake, tied with a gold cord—our card on top.

electoral college the committee, declared its amendment would make it possible for an independent candidate to run for president without establishing elaborate political machinery in every state which "means the expenditure of a vast sum of money."

When the amendment and report were laid before the senate some members informally expressed surprise at such a resolution being reported out by the agriculture committee, but committee members said that they regarded the course as proper, inasmuch as the resolution was a substitute for one recently offered in the senate by Senator Cawaway, Democrat, Arkansas.

Caraway Resolution.

The Caraway resolution would have declared it the sense of congress that defeated members should not vote on other than routine legislation at the session following an election and was referred to the agriculture committee by request of its author who said reference to any other committee would bring about its death.

At the same time the agriculture committee was in session, a judiciary sub-committee heard an endorsement from William Lowell Putnam, of Boston, representing the American Bar association, for the pending Ashurst resolution amending the constitution so that the terms of president and congress should begin soon after the election. No action was taken by the sub-committee on the resolution.

WARNED TO CHECK EXODUS OF LABOR

own use in states outside of Georgia. Failure to obtain such a license places a person liable to prosecution for a misdemeanor.

The Associated Press reported that heavier acreages of small grain have been planted in the infected boll weevil districts of the south, basing this statement on a report of the bureau of agricultural economics of the department of agriculture covering the states of North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee and Florida. It is on this report also that the statement is made that there has been a considerable exodus of farm labor from this territory.

Officials Warned.

"I have brought this matter to the attention of the tax collectors, the sheriffs, chiefs of police, county demonstration agents, causing agents, chambers of commerce, boards of trade, and I have also written a letter to each judge in the state, asking that he specifically charge the grand jury in such of the counties of his circuit with reference to this law," Mr. Stanley said. "Officials of this department have visited and are visiting the various counties of the state in an effort to put a stop to this exodus. Bailiffs, constables, policemen, sheriffs and deputy sheriffs can put a stop to the operation of these labor agents if they go at it vigorously. Georgia is a big state and unless help is secured from each locality the work of this department will be in vain."

not exceeding three, on the list of those voted for as president." The vote for vice president would be canvassed in a similar manner, except that in event of no choice by majority of the voters the senate would select that official as between the two persons receiving the largest number of votes.

The committee in reporting the amendment resolution through its chairman, Senator Norris, pointed out that the proposed system might result in the election of a president and vice president from different parties—"a matter of fundamental justice we ought to be protected by law in taking . . . should we desire to do it."

To Hasten Changes.

The amendment would further provide that the terms of senators and representatives should begin the first Monday in January following the biennial congressional election and that congress should meet each year on that date. This would wipe out the session of the old congress after the biennial session.

Another provision of the amendment would be to change the date of inauguration of the president from March 4 to the third Monday in January.

White house officials in presenting President Harding's views on the proposal represented the executive as feeling that constant changes in the constitution were unnecessary and in some cases unwise. Mr. Harding, it was said, regarded the present procedure whereby a new congress does not meet for more than a year after its election as one of the wisest steps taken by the nation's founding fathers, as it allows passions to cool.

Opposite View.

The agriculture committee in its report, however, took an opposite view, declaring "the present condition of affairs is not only unfair to the citizenship at large, who have expressed their will as to what legislation they desire, but it is likewise unfair to their servants whom they have elected to carry out this will."

With respect to abolition of the cotton commission, Mr. Wallace admitted at the beginning of his address that the cotton problem, so far as his department had gone into it, had proved larger than had been expected. In the development of a department policy which would not only cover research work regarding cotton crop pests, but varieties for various sections of the belt, and control and quarantine work against the boll weevil, pink boll-worm and other enemies which appear from time to time, but would also take up the questions of economical marketing and warehousing, the secretary said that the services of thirty of the best men in his department had been enlisted.

Continuous Crisis.

"In nearly every section," Mr. Wallace said, "there seems to be an almost continuous crisis with respect to the dominant crop, especially during the last 18 months, during which we have experienced one of the greatest agricultural depressions in many years." And, he declared, "each section thinks that its problem is the worst."

Continuous Crisis.

The secretary told the delegates that the south, so far as its agricultural products were concerned, had recovered first and that cotton was the first crop to get back to its old time prices.

Discussing the insect pests which have ravaged the cotton crops of the south in recent years, Secretary Wallace said that he viewed the situation as "hopeful." He urged the cotton men not to get impatient because the boll weevil and other cotton enemies had not been stamped out more quickly. In this connection he asked for the passage of more stringent state quarantine laws, which he said would aid the department in stamping out or preventing the spread of many pests.

To Submit Results.

In telling about the formation of a united policy for the department so far as cotton is concerned, Secretary Wallace assured the delegates that when the scientific men of the department had been able to get together on the various problems involved, the result of their investigations would be submitted to the practical cotton men for their approval, and would be modified as much as seemed necessary.

"Then," he concluded, "we will have a cotton policy which can be confidently backed by all of us."

Plans for extension of the facilities for warehousing cotton under the provisions of the federal warehouse act, Secretary Wallace explained, to the delegates in an address at the terminal warehouse here by H. S. Yoh, of the federal warehouse license bureau.

Mr. Yoh explained how the warehouse man could benefit under the provisions of the act, and went into details regarding the issuance of negotiable certificates by bonded warehouses, and the methods adopted under the act for grading and classifying cotton.

Methods of growing cotton which had been proved by practical experience to be successful in boll weevil territory were described by J. W. Fox, of Scott, Miss., manager of one of the largest plantation companies of that state. Heavy fertilization, to bring about early maturity of the crop, use of calcium arsenate and the destruction of the plants as soon as the crop is picked, were advocated by Mr. Fox as the best way to reduce damage by the weevil.

OPERATORS AGREE UPON PEACE PLAN

Bituminous Coal Men to Submit Plan to Miners' Representatives at Chicago Today.

Chicago, December 5.—A plan of settlement, unanimously agreed by representative coal operators from 15 bituminous states here today, will pave the way, they predicted, for an understanding when they meet with the miners' representatives tomorrow.

While they would not give out any details, operators intimated they had made enough concessions to make the plan attractive to John L. Lewis, mine union president.

The proposed agreement was drafted by a committee composed of Charles O'Neill and J. H. Sanford, representing Pennsylvania operators; Hugh Sharkey, Indiana; Alex. Miller, Illinois; Harry Taylor, Southwest; and E. S. Brooks, Wyoming.

This committee, operators said, favored a settlement based on districts with the privilege of states to group for any settlement they might agree to, and carrying arbitration and a sliding scale of wages based on the market price of competing coal fields.

After the submission of this report the committee was ordered to rephrase parts of it, but operators said little objection was voiced against the essential features of the plan and it is expected a plan along these lines will be submitted to the miners' representatives tomorrow.

Voiture to Elect.

Officers for the ensuing year will be elected at the regular monthly meeting of the La Voiture 217, La Societe des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux, at the American Legion clubrooms, 141-12 Marietta street, Wednesday night at 8 o'clock.

Membership proposals will also be acted upon at this meeting.

Wilson Cabinet Officer Is Here Visiting Friends

David F. Houston Is Entertained at Dinner by J. Epps Brown.

David F. Houston, formerly secretary of the treasury under the Wilson administration, accompanied by W. S. Gifford, vice president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, both of New York City, arrived in Atlanta Tuesday night en route to Florida for a vacation trip.

Mr. Houston, who is president of the Bell Telephone Securities company, is an old friend of J. Epps Brown, president of the Atlanta Telephone and Telegraph company, as is Mr. Gifford, and it was at the invitation of Mr. Brown that they decided to stop off in this city. Before returning to New York City they will visit Savannah and Charleston on business.

In honor of his distinguished visitors Mr. Brown was host Tuesday night at a dinner-party at the Piedmont Driving Club, to which about a dozen local officials of the telephone company were invited.

"The nature of our visit to Atlanta," said Mr. Houston, "is simply that of pleasure and at the invitation of Mr. Brown. We are not on an inspection tour, nor has our visit south at this time anything to do with business matters. Mr. Gifford and myself decided we needed a couple of weeks' vacation and decided to spend it in Florida."

Minna Gombel's Husband Jailed For Bogus Check

Former Forsyth Star's Marriage Disclosed by Albany, N. Y., Police Action.

Records in the office of Judge Thomas H. Jeffries, Fulton county ordinary, show that Ferdinand Eggen, arrested in Albany, N. Y., recently charged with cashing worthless checks, married "Mrs. Howard Ramsey," whose stage name was Miss Minna Gombel, one time Forsyth theater star.

Eggen is said to have told the Albany police that he and Miss Gombel were married in Atlanta after the star had terminated her Atlanta engagement.

The records show they were married July 11, by Rev. E. L. Reiser, pastor of the English Lutheran Church of the Redeemer. The pastor when interviewed Tuesday said he recalled asking "Mrs. Gombel" for her every attention, it is said, their engagement was never made public.

This year's freshmen class at Yale university is the largest freshmen body of students ever entered at that institution.

INTERIOR DEPARTMENT ANNUAL REPORT MADE

Secretary Fall Tells Work Achieved in Report Made Congress.

Washington, December 5.—Use and development of the country's natural resources under control of the interior department have contributed in great measure to national stabilization and prosperity, Secretary Fall declared today in his annual report. The secretary listed the more outstanding of these contributions as opportunities for home making upon public lands by returned soldiers and other citizens; the discovery of new oil fields; development of existing fields and increasing production of oil and its products; the exploitation of coal deposits, and the opening of mines in the western states.

Incidentally, the interior secretary declared these developments have resulted in very substantial cash returns to the federal treasury and to the various states in which these mineral resources have been developed under leading laws.

The outstanding administrative accomplishment of the department during the fiscal year ended last June 30 was declared to be the reaching almost of current work in both the land office and the pension office. The examination of fine homestead proofs is current in the former office, a situation which has not existed for many years, the secretary said. This, he has already said, has resulted in placing in the hands of the people assets valued at more than $30,000,000 and has been done without incurring the force of the national debt.

Wider extension of the reclamation policy in former arid lands of the west was recommended in the report, which showed that while funds were restricted for that work the achievements of the reclamation service justified the continuation of the reclamation policy. One new irrigation project was started despite lack of funds, and the total value of crops raised on reclaimed land was estimated at more than $450,000,000. The benefits in the way of making homes, increase of food production and addition to the national wealth by the reclamation of lands make that work of great value in regard to prosperity, the report asserted.

Education of Indians, which falls to the lot of the interior department, has been greatly promoted. The attendance at Indian schools for the most part has increased in every previous year. A special effort to provide greater health facilities to the Indian through more hospitals and more extensive nursing service was made.

More than 130,000 pension claims were disposed of during the year by the bureau of pensions, and 99,000 applications for pensions, the accumulation in March 1921, were handled, practically bringing that work up to date. The total number of pensioners on the rolls at the end of the fiscal year was 547,016, being 19,937 less than the previous year. The amount disbursed for pensions was $253,807,582. Increasing efficiency in this service was attested to by the decrease in the cost of adjudication and payment.

A record-breaking number of applications for patents in this country was received by the patent office, more than 113,500. This has caused great need of increased office forces, and if the increase in the work continues at the rate of the past three years, the director reported, it may be necessary further to augment the number of employees. The patent office is a self-supporting institution, Mr. Fall pointed out, adding that last year the receipts of the office were $172,000 greater than expenses. The playgrounds in the nation, its national parks and monuments, were visited by a record-breaking number of persons. More than 1,216,000 citizens of every state and territory in the union, its possessions and many foreign countries viewed the wonders of nature presented in these parks. Provision for storage of oil drawn from government oil wells in the west, to allow for keeping greater quantities of crude oil, was recommended in the report, in order that the government, which is forced to sell its oil royalties monthly, may take advantage of better markets by holding back its stocks. Provision for more storage tanks, such as private companies have, in the fields, is absolutely necessary, it was said. Under this system, Mr. Fall stated, the government's oil tends to be put down the price in periods of depression, to the injury of the consumer. To the extent that the government is obliged to take part in business, it should throw its influence toward stabilization rather than toward demoralization of the industry, he said.

Pointing out the government takes its royalties from oil land leases in the form of crude oil, Mr. Fall said the fiscal year ending last June 30 amounted to $7,800,000, while in the fiscal year $22,500,000 was received by the Indian tribes from royalties on oil produced from Indian owned lands.

Reports of the governors of Alaska and Hawaii, summarized in the interior report, review the progress of the two territories during the year. Governor Bone, of Alaska, noted that a steady increase in exports and imports foreboded returning prosperity and said that with encouragement a strong tide of immigration might have set in. He added that however, until mining was inaugurated on a large scale and industries started the population could not be expected to increase greatly. The governor submitted a long list of recommendations urging that jurisdiction over the whole of Alaska excepting the fisheries be vested in the interior department; that branch lines and spurs be built to the Alaska railroad; that all law-enforcing agencies be consolidated under the department of justice; that control of the fisheries be taken over by the bureau of fisheries of the department of commerce, and the formulation of a colonization plan.

Governor Larrington, of Hawaii, reported that during the 12 months ended last June the Pacific territory passed through one of the most critical financial periods in its history and that while general business conditions had improved the agricultural labor situation still was serious. One of the foremost of his recommendations was passage by congress of the Hawaii emergency labor resolution or some similar legislation to provide workers and at the same time bring the racial population of the territory more nearly into balance.

Production of helium, the non-inflammable gas substitute for hydrogen in lighter-than-air craft, and the jurisdiction of the interior department and under legislation notable progress has been made by the bureau of mineral lands. The method of separating helium from natural gas, in which it occurs.

The most serious situation facing the department in the fiscal year ended last June, the secretary asserted, was the situation of the bureau of employees for employees has not been revised. Because employees can earn more in other departments and in outside industries the loss and turnover has become demoralizing. Speedy legislation to increase salaries is sorely needed, he said.

Chief Beavers Will Wage War On "Tenderloin"

Offenders Arrested in Suspected Area Will Be Tried in State Courts.

Drastic measures will be applied to "clean out" Atlanta's "tenderloin," which has loomed as a menace of serious proportions, Chief of Police James L. Beavers said Tuesday night. The district referred to is the territory in the vicinity of Grady hospital, the Boys' High school and the medical school of Emory university. "That part of the city," the chief said, "is the headquarters for the riff-raff of the underworld. It is the sore spot of Atlanta. There have been hundreds of arrests from the district in the last few weeks, but the recorder's court has not the power to deal drastically enough with the offenders."

The chief, after a conference with Roy Dorsey, solicitor of the municipal court, decided to bring all offenders within the area before the judge of the city court who can assess the maximum penalty of 12 months in the workhouse or on the chain gang.

The chief said the negro inmates of the houses in the district heretofore simply paid fines or served 30-day sentences. In the future those arrested within the confines of the district, or anywhere else, the chief said, would be bound over to the city court and sent to the workhouse or the chain gang.

SERMIS CLEARED

Jury Finds Him Guiltless in Friend's Death.

James A. Sermis, 242 Piedmont avenue, was exonerated of all blame in the death of his room mate, Tony Polites, who was shot through the heart when Sermis mistook him for a burglar.

The action was taken by a coroner's jury that convened Tuesday afternoon, returning a verdict of "accidental homicide."

Funeral services for the victim will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Greek Orthodox church. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery. Harry G. Cole has charge of the funeral arrangements.

TAXICAB ORGANIZER
RELEASED ON BOND

James C. Lee, organizer of the "Black and White Taxicab company," was released from Fulton tower Tuesday on $3,000 bond, following his incarceration on charges of larceny after trust in connection with the sale of stock in the taxicab concern. Lee was arrested on a warrant issued by Judge T. O. Hathcock on complaint of one of the stockholders, who asserted that Lee had withdrawn the funds of the company from a local bank and was preparing to leave the city.

Denying the charge, Lee said Wednesday that the warrant was taken

Announcement

The Coupon below and 5c entitles you to a 50c can of C. H. Perma-Spar Varnish Stain

For over forty years this company has manufactured and sold the very highest grade paints and varnishes.

Three years ago, almost by accident, a remarkable varnish was discovered in our factory. Since that time our research department has been working unceasingly upon the new discovery. The Varnish has been tested out in every conceivable way. The results of these tests are remarkable.

The new Varnish, known as Perma-Spar, and varnish stain made with it, will withstand boiling hot water for over nine minutes without injury.

Panels varnished with Perma-Spar Varnish Stain have been totally immersed in water for weeks at a time without the slightest injury to the finish.

Think what this discovery means to you! You can now finish your floors, woodwork and furniture with a varnish stain which neither steam nor water can injure—a varnish stain that wears like iron.

We want you to try out this super-varnish stain yourself. The coupon below, together with 5 cents, entitles you to a fifty-cent can of Perma-Spar Varnish Stain, any color you prefer. Clip the coupon and bring it to our store today.

They Are Dying!
Scores of Them!
In All Atlanta

War on Rats Was Fraught With Frequent Fatalities
Monday.

BY GEORGE L. DAVIS.

They are dying, slowly but surely.

The drink of moonshine would save them. One drink of water will kill them.

They have innocently nibbled a particle of food containing barium carbonate and even now they are writhing and struggling in the throes of death.

In a last desperate attempt to attack the seemingly unattainable, they are flocking to the hills of north Georgia and raiding burglar proof cellars in the city of Atlanta.

They are not rats. They are rodents. Government authorities estimate that 500,000 of the germ laden disease spreaders infest Atlanta. The chamber of commerce estimates that 10,000 succumbed Monday night and Tuesday morning.

Thirty thousand packages of barium carbonate will be distributed free from the fire stations and the chamber of commerce within the next week. The distribution began Monday.

The barium carbonate is harmless to human beings unless taken in large quantities, but it is sure death to rats.

It is administered in the form of food mixed with road and Wesley avenue cannot be prevented by law, according to E. R. Beckwith, business manager for the Buckhead Improvement club, which has sought for several days to prevent construction of business property at that point.

Legal process cannot be taken against the builders, W. H. Roane and H. L. Lamb, he said, but he has abandoned the idea of seeking an injunction.

According to Mr. Beckwith, erection of stores at Peachtree and Wesley avenue would result in at least $50,000 depreciation of property values in that neighborhood.

It is a shame that there is no law which will protect the man who spends $100 a front foot for fine residence property against encroachment of business concerns," he said.

The Buckhead Improvement club, he added, has offered owners of the corner $5,000 profit for the site, and they have declined to accept it.

Abandon Plans To Halt Peachtree Road Buildings

Erection of stores at the intersection of Peachtree road and Wesley avenue cannot be prevented by law, according to E. R. Beckwith, business manager for the Buckhead Improvement club, which has sought for several days to prevent construction of business property at that point.

Commission Approves Commutation Books
For Suburban Lines

The state public service commission Tuesday issued an order granting the Georgia Railway and Power company authority to sell individual commutation books on its Stone Mountain and Marietta lines containing 12 tickets each and good for 10 days, and family commutation tickets containing 10 tickets good for 25 days at slightly reduced rates under the regular rate.

The commission declined the petition of the company to discontinue issuing 90-day and 35-day books on these lines.

The commission granted the petition of the Gainesville Midland railroad for permission to increase its passenger rate from 3.6 cents a mile to 4.8 cents a mile.

The Georgia and Northwestern railroad was granted permission to discontinue trains Nos. 6, 7 and 8 on Sundays and to operate train No. 2 daily and Sunday.

The commission refused to grant a petition filed by W. J. Govan, a traveling salesman, asking for the elimination of mileage charges on the Southern railway between the Peachtree street station and the terminal station on tickets bought on trains running east. The commission ruled that the Peachtree street station was a part of the Atlanta terminal station and for this reason the railroad could charge the rate into the terminal on that mileage basis. The change would have amounted to about 10 cents on each ticket.

CHIEF GETS RABBIT Raid on Police Station Ends
On Table.

A wild rabbit that strayed into police headquarters Tuesday afternoon a few hours later, changed somewhat in appearance, graced the supper table of Chief of Police James L. Benner, who captured and outdressed the hare with marked agility.

The rabbit hopped inquisitively up the steps to the police barracks. There he was "shooed" into a corner, but dodging half-score of pursuers, he encountered the chief who, throwing dignity to the four winds, grabbed the elusive hare by one hind leg.

"I'll have him in a stew tonight, won't I," the chief remarked, as he clutched his trophy of the indoor chase.

CHAMBER MEMBERS TO ELECT DIRECTORS

Members of the chamber of commerce in good standing are being mailed ballots for nominating eight directors to be elected on the board in December. The ballots are accompanied by a printed roster of all members of the chamber who have paid dues necessary to qualify them for voting in the nominations.

From the ballots being mailed out will be selected the sixteen men who will be declared nominated. Names of these sixteen nominees will be placed on the official ballot, which will also be mailed to the members in good standing.

Eight directors will be declared elected when the final official ballots are returned, the eight highest nominees being named directors.

ALBERT S. ADAMS IS ELECTED DIRECTOR
ATLANTA NATIONAL

Announcement was made Tuesday of the appointment of Albert S. Adams, widely known Atlanta real estate dealer and civic leader, to the board of directors of the Atlanta National bank.

Mr. Adams' election on the board will become effective immediately. His appointment as a member of the directorate is characteristic of the policy of the institution in identifying itself with the progressive interests of the city, officials stated.

For several years Mr. Adams has been regarded as one of the leading business men and boosters of Atlanta. He served as international president of the Association of Rotary Clubs, and has been active in local chamber of commerce affairs.

The Atlanta National bank, which is the oldest national institution in the cotton states, recently began a movement to expand its present facilities. In line with its expansion program the bank will open a branch in the Piedmont hotel building on January 1, which will be under the personal supervision of George R. Donovon, vice president, and James Alexander, assistant cashier.

J. S. Kennedy, cashier of the institution, was recently elected a director by the board.

TRIAL OF GRAHAM
AS PICKPOCKET
WILL END TODAY

Trial of J. E. Graham, alias Eddie Gray, charged with picking the pocket of Fire Chief W. E. Smith, of Gainesville, will be concluded in Eighth superior court Wednesday.

It is charged that Graham took a purse containing $60 in currency from Chief Smith's pocket. He denies having committed the theft, but admits he was in a group of men who were present at the time.

E. B. Ward, assistant ticket agent at Brookwood station, where Smith was robbed, testified that he saw Graham take the purse. Chief Smith identified the defendant as the thief.

BURNED FIGHTING FIRE Driver Saves His Truck From Burning Up.

Working single-handed to extinguish a fire that had started on the truck he was working on at the Gate City Ice Cream company, a mechanic was badly burned about the hands before the blaze was brought under control.

He was under the truck when the fire started. Sliding from under the vehicle, he grabbed a fire extinguisher and subdued the flames before they reached a bucket of gasoline standing on the running board of the truck. When the fire department arrived the fire was out. Cates was treated at Grady hospital.

Jury Slackers
Hit by Judge
In Lions' Talk

Judge Humphries Says That
"Blue-Sky" Stock Laws
Are Necessary.

"The man who evades jury duty through mere subterfuge is a slacker and should be branded as such," Judge John D. Humphries declared in an address before the members of the Lions' club Tuesday at the weekly luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce cafe.

"What we have to do is to get government laws," he continued, "and we can't be good citizens and be enemies to their enforcement and no man is justified in sanctioning or approving any violation of these laws, or any evading duty necessary to the administration of justice."

Judge Humphries stated that safeguards for the unsuspecting public who persisted in buying worthless stock floated by irresponsible concerns were essential to serve those who have no idea of the values of stocks.

Dean Thomas H. Johnson, of St. Philip's cathedral, made a short talk on the Five-way drive that is to be launched soon. He told of the worthiness of the cause and predicted that in a few years that only one annual drive would be made for all charities.

J. R. Regans, president, presided over the meeting. An interesting musical program was rendered.

IRISH FREE STATE BORN UNDER ARMS

As New Government Is Formally Inaugurated, Dublin Swarms With Irish Soldiery.

By RALPH H. TURNER.

London, December 5.—The Irish Free State was born at midnight with troops prepared to protect the child from enemies. Reading of the royal assent in the house of lords formally ushered in the new government of Eire.

Dublin was virtually under martial law as the greatest event in the history of Ireland came to pass. Troops of the Free State were thrown about strategic points of the city in order to prevent any coup on the part of the adherents of Eamon de Valera, "pretend-pretender" of the country who refugees to recognize the new government.

Most of the members of the Irish parliament are barricaded in government buildings. Those who venture out on the streets are surrounded by heavy bodyguards, detachments of Free State troops patrol the streets in motor lorries and frequent raids are made on dwellings.

Insurance Library Association Holds "Midwinter Frolic"

The annual meeting and midwinter frolic of the Insurance Library Association of Atlanta was held at the Chamber of Commerce cafe Tuesday evening.

The meeting opened with the singing of "The Mississippi Altars," a parody on "Way Down Upon the Swanee River," and was followed by a luncheon.

Charles A. Bickerstaff, nominated temporary president of the association at its organization about a year ago, announced a nominating committee that proposed the following officers, who will serve for a period of two years: Charles A. Bickerstaff, president; William L. Dunbar, first vice president; Wilmer L. Moore, second vice president; George P. Street, secretary and treasurer; H. N. Hutchinson, A. H. McDonald and E. W. Dubose compose the new executive committee appointed.

S. Y. Tipper, Sr., delivered the principal address of the evening and stressed the importance of learning the technicalities of the insurance business and praised the Insurance Library association for its work in training the personnel of the various insurance companies along this line. Following Mr. Tipper's address the people assembled were entertained by a radio burlesque entitled "Radio Stations I Have Heard," George F. Mc-Nulty sang several selections. The Royal Insurance company, the Firemen's Fund Insurance company, the local board of insurance commissioners and the Insurance Library association entertained with farcical sketches.

Miss Isobel Stevens, librarian, represented the association at a meeting held in New York recently and reports Atlanta the fourth largest insurance city in America. The Insurance Library Association of Atlanta numbers 350 members.

ROTARIANS HOSTS TO NEWSPAPERMEN AT WEEKLY LUNCHEON

Members of Atlanta's newspaper family were honor guests Tuesday at the regular weekly luncheon of the Rotary club at the Capital City club. The program was in charge of Wylie West, who introduced representatives from the three local dailies and paid an eloquent tribute to their efforts and profession.

Seated at the speaker's table on both sides of W. M. "Bill" Brownlee, president of the local club, were Buford Goodwin, James B. Nevin and Dudley Glass, of The Georgian; O. B. Keeler, and Ernest Rogers, of The Journal, and Henson Tatum, Parks Rusk and H. H. Wimpee, of The Constitution.

In his introduction of the honor guests, Mr. West told the assemblage that one of the greatest factors in the progress and prosperity of Atlanta, was the "perpetual boosting spirit" exemplified by members of the press.

A contribution from the pen of Edgar A. Guest, Chicago poet and newspaper writer, appearing in The Rotarian this month was read by Albert S. Adams. The theme of the article dealt with what the writer would like to see on Christmas, if it could be presented in a tangible form. Among the things included in the gifts are nobleness of character; honesty, unselfishness, charity, and devotion to country and self.

Announcement was made at the luncheon of the Rotarian's plans for successfully conducting the five-year subscription campaign here during the next few weeks.

HAPPY BUNCH SHOW AMUSES BIG CROWD

"The Happy Bunch Minstrel" opened its two-day engagement at Cable hall Tuesday night before a large and highly amused audience. The minstrels are all amateurs from the Baraca class of the Grant Park Methodist church, under whose auspices the show is given.

E. F. Bradley is director; M. L. Chelving manager of the show. In the cast are E. E. Parker, J. R. Hubbard, A. L. Rmbo, R. J. Olin, A. C. Garner, W. E. Loden, E. M. Yancy, J. Virgil Glenn, E. F. Bradley, J. C. Human, Jr., C. R. Hurst, S. C. Webb, C. H. Harmon, W. R. Johnson, H. D. Harper, Edgar B. Lester and Miss Melba Chelving.

The performance will be repeated Wednesday night, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Tree Is Planted As War Memorial To Soldier Dead

One Hundred Trees Will Be Planted on Road of Remembrance.

A memorial tree to commemorate Fulton county heroes who lost their lives in the world war was planted Tuesday with appropriate ceremony by the Fulton county committee on the Bankhead highway.

T. L. Wynn, of the United States army post at Fort McPherson, delivered the principal address of the occasion, in the absence of General David C. Shanks, who could not be present on account of illness.

Mr. Wynn told of the horrors of the war and spoke of the sublimity of the occasion.

Colonel J. M. Little, who presided over the ceremony, also made a short talk. Others who spoke were Mrs. T. T. Stevens, chairman of the Fulton county committee; L. L. D. Miller, of Fort McPherson; and Colonel Evan P. Howell.

The Fulton honor roll was read by B. P. Gambrell, commander of post No. 1, American Legion, after which "taps" was sounded by the Fort McPherson bugler.

The musical feature of the ceremony was in charge of Clyde Sparks, who sang "Boy of Mine," accompanied by Miss Katherine Foster on the violin.

It is planned to plant 100 trees along the Bankhead highway to change the name of the highway to "Road of Remembrance."

The tree was planted by Nelson Crisp.

The Fulton county woman's committee of the Bankhead highway includes Mrs. Ben Wiley, chairman of the tree planting and programs; Mrs. Arthur Akers, and Mrs. L. C. McKinney, chairmen for securing trees; Mrs. Elliott Cheatham, chairman of the tree planting and programs; Mrs. Arthur Akers, and Mrs. L. C. Virginia Educator Will Head Shorter Rome, Ga., December 5.—(Special.) Dr. D. J. Blocker, of Williamsburg, Va., has been elected president of Shorter college by the board of trustees and has accepted the position, vacant since the death of Dr. A. W. Van Hoose a year ago.

A letter from Dr. Blocker to Colonel L. A. Dean stated that he would arrive in Rome early in January. Dr. W. D. Furry, dean of the faculty of Shorter, who has been administrative head since the death of Dr. Van Hoose, will remain in the capacity of dean and there will be no other changes in the official staff or faculty of the college.

Dr. Blocker is now assistant professor of psychology and philosophy at the College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va. He is a southern man who has had wide experience in educational work.

BURNS MAY PROVE FATAL TO WOMAN

Macon, Ga., December 5.—(Special.)—Two women, Mrs. Cleo Ming, a 21-year-old bride of W. G. Ming, a farmer on the Mansfield estate, near Macon, and Miss Susie Thigpen, 19-year-old daughter of Freeman Thigpen, of Dublin, are in a serious condition tonight at the Macon hospital as a result of burns sustained last night.

They were preparing supper last night when the stove on which they were cooking burst into flames and the blazing oil saturated their clothing. Miss Thigpen rushed into the yard screaming and Mrs. Ming followed her, beating the flames with her bare hands.

Mr. Ming was attracted by the screams of the women, and rushed from the stables, where he was feeding live stock, and assisted in putting out the flames. At first their burns were not considered serious and they remained at the Ming home during the night.

When brought to the hospital this evening, examination showed Mrs. Ming's burns were the most severe, her back, shoulders and arms being seared. Miss Thigpen sustained burns on the lower part of the body.

Physicians stated tonight that Miss Thigpen will recover, but it will be several days before Mrs. Ming will be out of danger.

FASTER SCHEDULE New Cars on Two Lines for Girls' High Students.

A four-minute schedule became effective on the Highland Avenue-South Pryor car line Tuesday during rush hours, from 6 to 8:30 a. m. and 4 to 7:30 p. m., and an eight-minute schedule throughout the day.

Instead of the former ten-minute schedule, it was announced that cars would run every eight minutes throughout the day between the Virginia avenue terminus of the line and the Federal prison.

Two special cars for use of the pupils of the Girls' High school were put into service Tuesday morning. One leaves North avenue or Boulevard at 7:50 a. m. and arrives at the girls' school at 8:15, and the other comes from East Atlanta and arrives at the corner of Washington and Hunter streets at 8:15.

MASONIC CLUB Will Elect a Successor to Dr. Stuchell.

A successor to Dr. William T. Stuchell, president of the Atlanta Masonic club, will be elected at the regular weekly meeting of the organization Wednesday.

Efforts to persuade Dr. Stuchell to stand for reelection to his position for another year proved unsuccessful, as he stated that the many other tasks now upon him made it necessary for him to decline.

Miss Daisy Jean, Belgian cellist, and Miss Jean Wiswell, pianist, will entertain at the luncheon Wednesday.

66 JOIN MARINES HERE LAST MONTH, MAKING RECORD

By accepting 66 new recruits in November, the Atlanta marine corps recruiting station in the postoffice building led all other cities in the south, and was the third highest in the United States, it was made public by Captain George Bower, U. S. M. C. recruiting officer, Tuesday.

In November 500 were examined by the medical officer, but due to underweight, defective eyesight and kindred other ailments only 66 were able to pass the required examination. Captain Bower stated that only 62 Georgians could be accepted this month.

Following were the names of the recruits: William E. Terry, Captain Bower, U. S. M. C. recruiting officer, Tuesday.

There was before one league of nations, he said, "which brought the greatest war, that killed Greece. My own private opinion is that the guarantee of England would be delightful to receive. We could do without guarantees from the lesser nations in the league."

Asked if he did not feel that America again would come to the aid of France if she were attacked without provocation, the Tiger said:

"Ah, that I cannot say. That I dare not say. America is democracy. She would have to decide at the time. We in France have to act as if we were alone in the world."

The Tiger has another strenuous day ahead of him tomorrow. The program includes a visit to the grave of America's unknown soldier in Arlington national cemetery; an address before army officers at the War college; a sail down the Potomac to Mount Vernon; a call on former President Wilson, and an address before the Southern society.

Woman Credits Paw Paw Tonic With Helping Her Back to Health From Highly Nervous Condition

"After using one bottle of PAW PAW TONIC I can say without exaggeration that I have added years to my life," writes Mrs. A. E. Williams, 333 S. Blakely Street, Dunmore, Pa.

"I was in a highly nervous condition due to an attack of Grippe. I could scarcely do my household work. The least noise grated on my nerves and would drive me almost mad."

"Thanks to PAW PAW TONIC I am once more back to my old self and I enjoy my work, sleep and rest like a child. I ask all sufferers to employ PAW PAW TONIC if they wish to enjoy life."

Is not such sincere gratefulness convincing evidence that Munyon's Paw Paw Tonic will do what is claimed for it? Proof, however, talks louder than claims. You can prove to yourself that it can bring the happiness of health to you.

Buy a 21 bottle of Paw Paw Tonic. You will be an odd case indeed, whether you suffer from stomach trouble, nervousness, insomnia, heartburn, indigestion or weakness, if it does not quickly benefit you.

If you have dizzy spells there is probably a deficiency in the amount of blood being pumped to the brain. A few doses of Paw Paw in practically all such cases have strengthened the heart action, sending new, clean blood through the brain and body.

Emerging, M. Juseurand pointed out the reflecting pool under process of construction between the memorial and the Washington monument and explained that in the morning it would mirror the tall Washington shaft and in the afternoon would reflect the memorial.

Clemenceau then was driven to the monument, but his car circled it without stopping and sped out through the fashionable Chevy Chase section to the Zoological gardens, where the Tiger expressed a desire to see bears. He made the complete round of the bear den, stopping before nearly every one to read the descriptive cards and to grunt out an occasional comment to M. Juseurand.

Returning to the White residence again, he gave an interview to the greatest array of newspapermen he has faced since he left France. There were present nearly 100, representing the Washington corps of correspondents, many of whom had confronted the Tiger frequently at Paris during the peace conference.

Discussing with them his self-imposed mission to the United States—that of "stirring up public opinion on certain matters"—he declared that it was almost accomplished.

"If my opinions are asked as to what you should do," he asked, I would ask for a kindly intervention. But of course behind words there must be some sort of acts. A few lines on a piece of paper would be enough."

"It is time," said the doctor, turning away from his statistics "that something of a constructive nature was done. The situation has reached the point where considerable concern must be developed over this wastage of human life. The automobile industry as a business is nothing but business. The manufacturers must take this situation as one of their major problems. They must see the writing on the wall because although now dim it will blaze into brilliancy within a short time."

the roof of an auxiliary structure, a story lower, led the investigators to announce their belief that at least two persons aided her on the roof, and that one or two more awaited them in an automobile at the street level.

The sheriff announced that a number of persons who were connected with the trial of Mrs. Phillips would be sought to throw what light they could on the escape, and Harry Karst, a defense witness, was the first to appear.

Karst told the officers that at Armour Phillips' request he had picked the latter up yesterday at the home of Mrs. Phillips' sisters, and had brought him down town and left him at a garage. He said he had not seen Phillips since.

Matron's Story.

The matron on duty at the time of the escape was Mrs. L. D. Fisher, long a member of the jail staff. She said she visited Mrs. Phillips in her cell at about 9:30 last night, found her in bed and complaining of illness, and then awoke the women in the dormitory. When assigned to cells have their breakfast was put in a shelf in her door as usual.

Later the cells were unlocked and when Mrs. Fisher noticed that Mrs. Phillips had not appeared, she asked other prisoners concerning her and they said she was "around here some place." Still unable to locate her, the matron resumed her routine work and then, she said, a woman who occupied a cell adjoining that of Mrs. Phillips, told her that Mrs. Phillips had escaped.

Cells in the women's wards have inside curtains. The curtain in Mrs. Phillips' cell was drawn, and this delayed discovery of the escape.

WORDS, OR WORK?

The meeting of the "cotton commission" at Memphis, composed of delegates appointed by the governors of the twelve producing states, can be of inestimable value if it will produce a closed co-ordination between the federal and the various state boards of entomology, without attempting to force any uniform program upon each state; or to force boll-weevil "control" through state legislation.

Bitter experience has proven that the boll-weevil situation is one that can be mastered only by the individual planter and not by arbitrary laws and repelling interferences.
Many a good undertaking has been spoiled by too much legislation affecting it.

The weevil now covers the entire cotton belt, hence there is no occasion for quarantining against him,
even if such a thing was practicable.
He has been permitted to fasten upon practically every cotton producing section while lawmakers and scientific theorists have attempted to deal with him through "acts" and edicts.

The cotton farmer who has learned by experience to plant his cotton as early as climatically safe, on well prepared seed beds, keeping his fields well drained, segregated from woodland, using only tested seed, plenty of fertilizer, and cultivating only five to ten acres to maturity by intense and excellent cultivation, applying calcium arsenate when necessary to hold down infestation—that is the farmer who has satisfactorily grown cotton in spite of the weevil—and all the resolute and legislating on earth could not insure for him better results.

Different states, and different sections in each state, demand different methods, all revolving, however,
around the basic idea of better and more intensive cultivation.

To illustrate, it is scientifically suggested that Florida growers destroy the first crops of squares and then spray with an arsenate.

To do that in middle or south
Georgia would so set back the maturity that it would positively encourage rather than retard weevil destruction.

It would mean ruin to the Carolina growers, and so on.

The weevil can be mastered only by practical methods—by the man who works, and sees that his tenants work.

The meeting in Memphis can be of great service in providing quarantine regulations, and a co-ordinated battle against the pink boll worm, which is now in Texas, and is even more threatening than the weevil was at its first appearance.

The worm has different characteristics and can be controlled by toning.

To that end, therefore, all conferences looking to dealing practically with insect pests should impress the necessity of individual work in dealing with the weevil, along lines already proven successful, and only upon radically reduced acreage to the plow, and should hammer the imperative necessity for federal and state co-operation in quarantining and exterminating the pink worm before it is permitted to reach into new territory.

WHERE THEY DO THINGS.

Writing of Omega, one of the youngest towns of Tift county, The Tifton (Ga.) Gazette says that "only a few years ago—very few—the pines, in primeval array, stood where Omega and its environs stand today. The pines are gone; in their stead, broad and fertile fields and, nestling among these, the pretty town, with its neat and attractive homes; its churches; its new school buildings, its business houses—an embryo modern city, surrounded by a prosperous and growing community."

They started out there with the will to work and do things in that little home community, and after a comparatively brief period they reaped the rich results, which are summed up by the Tifton paper,
as follows:

"If we were asked to designate the best farming section of the county, our thoughts would first turn to Omega—all are good, but if there are degrees in perfection, perhaps Omega has it. Certainly, the showing made by those farmers is second to none. In its merchants, there are shining lights—men who have put new and original ideas into their business, and who have a trade that reaches beyond the boundaries of the state. One of the finest things Omega has done is to keep an open market for the products of the farms that surround it. Perhaps therein lies one of the secrets
—and the main secret—of its commercial and industrial growth. The high character of Omega's citizens is attested by their interest in education, and the efforts they have made to secure the best for their children. A consolidated school district surrounds the town, and a modern, brick school building, which would be a credit to any city, is being erected."

A public-spirited community like that—a country town—whose trade
"reaches beyond the boundaries of the state," is one of the best illustrations of what can be accomplished by united effort on the one-for-all plan.

Nothing which could contribute to the advancement of the town's best interests has been neglected, in an educational as well as commercial way.

Its citizenship has comprehended all needful things and worked for them unceasingly.

DIYER BILL ABANDONED.

In view of the long and strenuous fight that has been made in behalf of the Dyer anti-lynching bill, the ease with which its opposition virtually killed it by the fil-luster process in the senate was somewhat surprising.

At the same time the feebleness of the resistance put forth by the champions of the bill gave color to the more or less general impression that there was a measure of hypocrisy on their part in their preten-sions of insistence, up to the last minute, upon its being pressed to a vote.

The charge was openly made by its opponents that the republicans never seriously considered passing the proposed anti-lynching law,
many of them believing it to be unconstitutional; and that it was kept alive and a subject of debate and agitation in congress so long for the sake of political effect.

That these charges were based upon something more than mere imagination is attested by the quickness with which the republican leaders submitted to the filibuster
in the closing days of the extra session and sent word to the democratic opposition that, as stated in a press dispatch, "the majority will not press the anti-lynching legislation further either at the remainder of the extra session or at the regular session convening Monday noon."

This is tantamount to the abandonment of the proposal to impose upon the country this or a similar act of legislation savoring of sectionalism.

And to that extent the American people have reason to be thankful.

But, gratifying as this turn of events undoubtedly is to the masses of the people, there is a lesson in the Dyer bill controversy to date that every community in which the lynching evil is tolerated may read with profit.

It is simply the fact that this proposed act of legislation was accorded such serious consideration as to be once passed by the house and kept for months on the senate calendar, indicates a determination on the part of right-thinking Americans eventually to put an end to mob violence and barbarism in this country, if not by action of the states themselves, then by federal encroachment upon state authority.

The Dyer bill has failed of enactment; but if lynching and mob outlawry is permitted to continue to shock the conscience and sensibilities of the American people from time to time, it is as certain as the coming of tomorrow that sooner or later a means will be found whereby the forces of federal law will be invoked to put an end to it.

Just From Georgia

BY FRANK L. STANTON

Love to Love.

If you should leave me—kissing me good-night.

And I should know that sweet kiss meant goodbye, I would not give the world my grief, and sigh.

Love's sorrow in the gardens of delight;

But I should say: "Somewhere Love's day dawns bright."

And beautiful God's morning dawns bright.

Where Love's rainbows span the peaceful sky.

And God's own smile has kissed the darkness white.

But some day—dreaming in far realms above.

Where grief is not, nor any gathering gloom.

Your lips will feel the first kiss that they knew.

While mine shall murmur: "Weary for your love."

I was so lonely in earth's light and bloom.

That through the gates of Death I came to you."

Real "Safety First."

The Springfield Leader says that at least one must give Citizen John Hart credit for resourcefulness, because—

"A still was discovered at his place while a hunt was in progress for four-teen skunks he had in the basement of the barn, where the still was found. It isn't hiding a still successfully and guarding it carefully nothing is."

At Poor Man's Cave.

I.

It's quiet here.

No tempests round you rave;

No house rent, due,

Shakes a whip at you,

Secure in the Poor Man's Cave.

II.

The world goes by.

With a song or sigh,

And you have just all you crave—

"The light of day."

From the world away—

Rich dreams in the Poor Man's Cave.

III.

And that's the gold.

That the world can't hold.

And the hermit soul can save—

The gold, as bright

As the moon makes night.

And Peace in the Poor Man's Cave.

Brief and Timely.

It doesn't take long to read the poems of the Arkansas Gazette man.

Witness the following, which he labels "Cave of the Arkansas Staff":

"Ye pastor gathers

From newspaper accounts

That the highest proof

Of her love for her sweetie

Is to murder him."

And then, take this, which he calls,

"At the Bakers' and the Bootleg-ers."

"Again this season

We are confronted

With the necessity

Of giving our fruit cake

At two places."

A Billville Word.

Don't think that we'll be givin'—

We're holdin' of our ground,

With winter at the picnic

An' swingin' Summer round!

A Sunset on the Desert.

I had been reading all afternoon,

So I did not note that the day had begun to wane.

I looked out of the window—and in the west was one of the rare sights of beauty one gets in this rare country of dreams.

The sun had already crept behind the edge but fading upward into grayish light. Below was a picture resembling a great fire, fully ablaze.

To the left a marvelous fan-shaped group of clouds shot into the heavens, like the fingers of a hand, or a spreading wing, each separate cloud tapering until it became lost in the pale blue beyond. And this remarkable formation was shaped at its lower side in a half circle, like an umbrella over the sinking sun.

watched and each moment a change took place—each moving mass
of color more beautiful than the last.

I was lost. I crossed the great plains of sagebrush and cactus. I climbed the rugged rocks. My eyes were riveted to this incomparable scene. Gold-yellow, crimson, fire-reds, purple—playing and dancing out in a rhapsody.

And folks say that there is no
God! Where do the sunsets come from, then?

I turned to my book again. But I could not bring my thoughts back from their setting way out there in the distant sky.

"Isn't this the most forlorn God-forsaken country you ever saw?" I made no answer but merely smiled and said: "I thought you were telling me to go to bed—where dreams are fed."

JUNIOR PHARMACISTS

The Frenchman Who's With Us!

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON

"Georges Clemenceau, the French tiger!" It's on every tongue. And why?

Since the armistice a number of notable Frenchmen have visited America—diplomats, orators, statesmen.

One year ago Briand and Viviani were here in attendance at the disarmament conference.

At the time Briand was premier.
Having arisen from the ranks of the lowly, and amassed a great power through his loyalty and devotion to the masses, as against the still formidable royalist party in France;
and again through his appealing personality, no brazen or affected, but simple and natural; and particularly through the force of an eloquence that gripped and swayed with thought and conviction and sincerity
—through all of these elements of greatness Briand, who subsequently fell as did Lloyd George in England,
most widely discussed, and most picturesque and popular, not only in America, but throughout the world—just a year ago.

It was my privilege to hear the notable address of Briand delivered in the arms parliament just about this date one year ago.

It stated the position of France in world affairs, particularly relating to German reparations, and as to the suspicion of France as to German designs, very similar to those expressed by "the tiger" today, and yet with much more softness of expression—more humanly sympathetic.

It was one of the most masterful addresses ever delivered in the history of the world—an outburst of deep-feeling oratory that rang with the clearness of a bell around the globe.

And then, a few days later, Viviani, whose fame had spread throughout the western hemisphere as the greatest orator of all continental Europe,
spoke on much the same subject;
and with a wonderful force of words and rhythm of voice "closed the argument" for France in a veritable cyclone of rhetoric and eloquence.

And now comes Clemenceau—the most unique of the trio by reason of his advanced age, great mental and physical strength, iron nerve and relentless conviction.

He is not endowed with the oratorical ability of a Briand or a Vi-viani. I am told, though I have never heard him speak; but I did talk with him in private, in France, in 1918
during the stress of war, and the impetuousness of his words and the impetuosity of his disposition, his alertness, his nervous energy, his deep conviction, his stormy lucidity of mind—they all impressed me as I have never been impressed before or since by any man.

And knowing him thus I am not surprised at the swinging pendulum of appraisal that is felt in this country today, as he uncompromisingly drives the French position in international relations.

Personally, I agree with very little that Clemenceau is trying to impress upon the American people.

France's attitude since the armistice, in many respects, capitalizing as she has and does her war-torn domestic conditions in order to set her self up as a pampered and petted nation, immune from attack and too holly for contact, has not been relied by her allies; and her secret designs against some of her continental neighbors in the interest of Turkey, showing a disposition to do under cover what she dared not avow
as a frank and open governmental policy, has not served to strengthen faith in her fidelity of purpose, or purity of motive.

At the same time we cannot forget what France suffered in the great conflict of nations, nor can we forget
in her present attitude toward Germany the iron yoke that Germany held about her for forty years after the war of 1871, when Alsace and Lorraine were attached to German territory, and a debt of indemnities imposed that not only kept France's treasury depleted, but enabled Germany, through the funds that poured in from France, to build up the great fighting machine which was fired to motion in July, 1914.

We cannot forget the French appeal under these circumstances,
though we should not condone a policy of ruthless disregard for the commercial rehabilitation of all nations
at peace.

Nor should we be unmindful that the Germany of today, struggling to get a foothold under a new and better form of government, is not the Germany of Prussian politics and faith that ruled under the scepter of the deposed and exiled kaiser, any more than the free government of the United States is the same that, little more than a century ago, bent to the command of a British monarch.

When a war is over it is over!

I have no more sympathy for the unreconstructed American who is still fighting Germany, now that the issue is settled, than I have for the unreconstructed southerner who is still fighting the north; or the unreconstructed northerner who is still flaying the bloody shirt.

If it is over, that settles it until
there is some cause for another war.

And so, if France would realize now that the war is over and that she is just one nation among many who participated and who suffered;
and that the peace and happiness of the world depends upon a spirit of commercial and industrial reconstruction, unhindered by prejudices, or barring bitterness or latent hatred—
we would listen to that kind of a doctrine from Clemenceau, "the tiger," with greater ease, and with a more absorbing interest, and a keener love.

Just a word now as to Clemenceau,
the man, as I know him, and as he has been pictured by those intimately associated with him—

As an orator, he has a horror of emphasis and of tumultuous volubility accompanied by great gestures.

His terse, tense sentences go straight to the target like an arrow.

They are not encumbered with epithets. Strong, short, stripped of useless words, they contain only the words necessary for the expression of the idea.

But he is one of those traitors who,
talking with his arms at rest or with his hands in his pockets, have their oratorical effect rather in their look,
their facial expression and in the compressed energy of what they are saying. He walks up and down, master of himself, attentive to the least motion in the room, never losing sight of the aim of his vigorous demonstration, even when he seems to allow himself to be diverted for a second by trifles along the way.

Clemenceau believes in the strenuous life. He gets up regularly at 3 o'clock every morning, and sometimes earlier. Not having need of a long sleep, he is not far from believing that sleep is a prejudice.

He is a hard worker. Eats regularly and cautiously, spurning meats, but devouring eggs. Takes daily gymnastics—and for one of his age is peculiarly fit.

THE PERISCOPE

The female of the species is more deadly to the male.

Life is getting to be just one damned "No Parking" sign after another.

The bone of contention isn't the only bone that figures in the Near East situation.

When liberty is functioning, you can recognize it by the quaint cry:
"Lynch him."

An egotist is one who loses faith in a dictionary that doesn't agree with his spelling.

Strange how little static can discourage the listener when a sermon is being broadcast.

It must be remembered, however,
that if you had money, enough to buy some of the things you want, you wouldn't want the things.

A special delivery letter isn't the only exciting thing in a small town.
There's the drummer who swings aboard after the train starts.

5 TO 10-YEAR TERM

IMPOSED UPON CAIN

Pleads Guilty in Fulton Court to Embezzlement and Forgery.

Pleading guilty to charges of embezzlement and forgery, Arthur H. Cain, former superintendent of the loss department of the local office of the Insurance Company of North America, Tuesday was sentenced to from five to ten years.

Cain made no statement when Judge R. N. Hardeman imposed sentence. There were three indictments, two charging forgery and one charging embezzlement. Cain is said to have misappropriated funds aggregating $85,300.

Following his disappearance several weeks ago, Cain was sought by Pinkerton detectives until he voluntarily presented himself at Fulton Tower.

A PITY TO LOSE ANOTHER HAIR

35c "Danderine" Saves Your Hair—Ends Dandruff! Delightful Tonic

Only fools let hair fall out and dandruff stay. Neglect means a bald spot shortly. A little "Danderine" now will save your hair. This delightful tonic cleanses the scalp of every particle of dandruff, tightens the hair-root pores, so the hair stops coming out and so the vitalizing oils, which are the very life and strength of the hair, can not ooze away. Danderine is not sticky or greasy. It has made weak, sick, neglected hair strong and healthy for millions of men and women. Your comb or brush is warning you. Hurry to any drug store and get a bottle now. Don't wait!

Rev. James B. Mitchell, formerly of Jacksonville, Fla., where he was pastor of the First Methodist church for 7 years, has recently been appointed pastor of the St. Mark's Methodist church of this city and will be in the pulpit Sunday, December 10, at 11 o'clock.

RADIO EXPOSITION CENTERS INTEREST

Demonstrations of Radio Control by Francill, "The Wizard," Are One of Big Features of Show.

The third day of the Southeastern radio exposition gets "under the wire" as noon today with every indication of eclipsing the past two days' attendance record and of increased interest to the public. Approximately 5,000 passed through the doors of the auditorium yesterday and each day augments the attendance figures. The radio show is the first of its kind ever held in the south and is proving immensely popular. Sixty exhibits from the southeast are massed into the building and include the latest and most novel radio apparatus. Radio sets of every description and kind, from the small crystal sets to the larger ones, are to be seen in action. It is attractive to the casual or initiated public, and the center of interest in Atlanta to those who are interested in any way in radio activities.

The outstanding point of interest is the demonstrations each day by Francill, "The Wizard." This comparatively young radio genius hails from Marion, Ohio, the home of President Harding, and his homefolk are as proud of him as they are of the president. His achievements in radio control are marvelous and have given him nationwide notoriety. His control of miniature automobiles, pumps and similar apparatus is one of the wonders of radio and the outstanding sensation of the big exposition. The exhibits of Georgia Tech R. O. T. C. and Fort McPherson are among the largest and most comprehensive entered. The R. O. T. C. exhibit contains an airplane equipped for wireless and many other equally as interesting radio features. The Fort McPherson exhibit contains a huge motor truck fully equipped with wireless, and various other radio apparatus constructed by the signal corps unit of that camp.

CLEAR, FREEZING WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR WEDNESDAY

"A few degrees below freezing point Wednesday night" was the gist of the weather forecast issued Tuesday by C. F. von Herrmann, meteorologist in charge of the local weather bureau office.

"We shall have fine, clear weather," said Mr. von Herrmann, "but I hardly think there will be any freezing weather before Wednesday night, and then it should go only a few degrees below thirty-two."

"Not much chance for a long period of cold weather, however, for the temperature in the northwest doesn't last long enough for Atlanta to get much of it."

VOTERS TO ELECT CITY HEADS TODAY

Democratic Nominees to Watch Polls Closely to Thwart Reported Republican Attempt at Coup.

Voters of Atlanta will go to the polls today in the general municipal election to cast their ballots for a mayor, ten administrative officers, six aldermen, thirteen councilmen and twelve members of the board of education.

Democratic leaders predicted Tuesday that the nominees of the primary will be elected by a vote unusually big for a general election, declaring that citizens who would otherwise not take the trouble to vote will go to the polls in order to smash the threat of a republican coup, planning of which leaked out a little more than a week ago.

Committees have been organized to watch the polls, especially those of the first and fourth wards, where negro registration is heavy, and close tab will be kept on the balloting all day.

Complete Ticket Reported. Leaders were hopeful Tuesday that the light of publicity given plans for the coup may have discouraged it to the extent that the stratagem is abandoned. It was reported that a complete republican ticket was to be placed in the field against the democratic nominees.

If any republican tickets were put out Tuesday the distribution was made under effectual cover. Reports were more than ever persistent during the day that an attempt will be tried to elect republican candidates from the first and fourth wards at least.

Polls will open at 7 o'clock this morning and close at 7 o'clock this evening.

Polling precincts in the various wards are as follows:

Polling Places.
First Ward A—Forsyth and Mitchell streets (Curtis drug store).
First Ward B—183 West Mitchell street (Olympian Soda company).
Second Ward A—65 South Pryor street (Martin's garage).
Second Ward B—75 South Pryor street (Medison drug store).
Third Ward A—East Hunter and Fraser streets (Eber Soda company).
Third Ward B—East Fair street and South Boulevard.

Motor Vehicle Receipts Already More Than 1921

Eleven Months of Present Year Bring $1,827,388 to State.

Although one month of the year still remains, receipts of the state motor vehicle department from the sale of automobile license tags for a little more than eleven months are greater by $128,000 than the receipts for the entire year of 1921, according to figures compiled Tuesday by Charles Cook, cashier of the department.

According to these figures, the receipts up to Tuesday amounted to $1,827,388, as compared to $1,704,208, the total receipts for last year. Up until Tuesday 128,479 passenger car licenses and 16,876 truck licenses had been sold. In 1922 the total number of licenses sold was 128,897, an increase of more than 17,000 licenses for this year over last year.

SILHOUETTES OF CITY LIFE

Reveries of a counter girl in an all-night luncheon:
Nine o'clock! Gee, what a long night! Gotta cut out point out so much. Darn that foot, anyhow—ouch!

Wonder what them two guys are talking about so much. . . . Been sitting there since I came on. . . . I hate the sight of a lunch room. . . . There's a guy that looks lone some. . . . Got a kind face. . . . Avar from home and the kiddies, I expect. . . . Just sorta looks like the kind that 'ud go home every night if he had the chance. . . . Hope there isn't no dances to-night. . . .

11:00 p. m.
Here's three guys been out to see their girls. . . . Stoppin' in for a piece of pie and milk before turning in. . . . Two of 'em been coming in here since I come on. . . . Guess they'll quit it pretty soon. . . . Have to go home at 6 every night then. . . . Must be havin' a run of hard luck. . . . Don't blame her much. . . . Wouldn't have him neither. . . . But maybe she's just kiddin'. . . . Tim alone to get him hooked. . . . Women is such darn fools!

Twelve-thirty.
Here they come. . . . Gosh, there's that same kid that was in here the last three nights. . . . All lit up like orange blossoms again. . . . How do they do it?
Here's that guy what tried to get fresh with me the other night. . . . Think just 'cause a girl works they can get fresh. His kind ain't worth killin'.

Look at that flapper over there. . . . Drunk as a owl. . . . Wonder what kind of a mother she has. . . . If she was my kid I'd spank her good. . . . She ain't got on enough clothes to cover a canary. . . . And just list to at that warble in the poor fisher-falls for. . . . Women ain't the only fools in the world. . . .

Here comes that would-be bad man. . . . There's the bouncer goin' over now to keep him quiet. . . . Look who's comin' in now! It's Bill, the cop on this beat. . . . He's got a real he-man for you. . . . They don't git too rough for him to handle. . . . Willed one man and caught three others—burglars—all by himself one night. . . . He's the kind of man I want. . . . Just let some of these guys try to get fresh with me now! . . . He's goin' over to help the bouncer keep that bunch of stags quiet. . . . Wonder where they get all that booze. . . . The whole gang's lit up like a bunch of boiled oaks. . . . They never spend more'n a quarter. . . . And I never got a tip out of them yet. . . . Well, they're goin'! Get to sleep about 2 o'clock. Some of 'em have to go to work at 8. . . . No wonder they don't git nowhere. . . . Me, I'm goin' to hit the hay for a long session with that guy Morpheus. . . .

Nearly through now. . . . Taxi boys comin' in to get breakfast. . . .

MOVE SICK CHILD'S BOWELS WITH "CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP"

MOTHER! Even Bilious, Upset, Tongue-Coated Children Love this Pleasant, Harmless Laxative

A teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" now will thoroughly clean the little bowels and in a few hours you have a well, playful child again. Even if cross, feverish, constipated, or full of cold, children love its "fruity" taste, and mothers can rest easy because it never fails to work. All the souring food and nasty bile right out of the stomach and bowels without griping or upsetting the child.

Tell your druggist you want only the genuine "California Fig Syrup" or full of children love it. Children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother, you must say "California." Refuse any imitation.

Most of the building lines have been tentatively fixed by the planning commission as ten feet back from the street. This depth was the original plan for widening Forrest avenue, but a movement will be launched at the meeting, it is learned, to set the building line for this thoroughfare back 15 feet on each side of the street from Peachtree to Boulevard.

Those interested declare that in view of the fact that Forrest avenue is destined to become one of the most important business streets in that section of the city, and that as one of the main arteries leading east and north it is becoming more and more congested daily, its widening will be come imperatively necessary and the decision as to the depth involved will be of great importance.

JOHNSON ADDRESSES MEN'S BROTHERHOOD

Charles O. Johnson addressed members of the men's brotherhood of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer on Monday evening on the subject of "Luther and the Reformation." This was the third of a series of four lectures by Mr. Johnson on "The History of the Christian Church." In his address he stated that Luther was the most colossal figure of heroic courage since the time of Christ.

Preaching The Gospel of "Come South To Farm"

That's what the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company, for many years, has been saying to farmers of the North and East; with golden promises of prosperity and happiness. That's what it still is saying to them; with ample records of these promises fulfilled.

Farm lands in the South are the richest in America; and they still are the cheapest; although each year's figures show that they are advancing more rapidly than in any other section.

How The Industrial and Immigration Department Of the L. & N. Serves The Farmer—and You

Seeking out desirable and successful farmers in less-favored climes, the L. & N. points out to them the advantages and attractions of the South and, inducing them to locate along its lines, affords them practical and intelligent help, in locating a farm of the right size, and teaching them how to plant, grow and market profitable crops. This service is rendered without cost to the farmer.

The L. & N. Railroad does not own an acre of farm land; offers nothing for sale except its services as a carrier and maintains this department solely and entirely for the benefit of the territory it serves and the advantages afforded the people of the nation by this all-year production and transportation of fresh fruits, vegetables, stock and poultry.

This department has issued many carefully prepared booklets on various subjects of interest to the farmer. This helpful information will be mailed free on request to the Industrial and Immigration Department of the L. & N. Railroad—Louisville, Ky.

L&N
THE OLD RELIABLE

Calls Alleged Frameup Infamous Lie

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Deschamps Answers Fraud Charges

Paris, December 5.—(By the Associated Press.)—It is an infamous lie, said Francois Deschamps, manager of George Carpentier, today when shown the declaration by Battling Siki that his championship bout with Carpentier was to have been a "frame-up."

"I was sure Carpentier would knock this negro out in the first round," Deschamps declared. "Do you suppose I would let this clumsy fight, or stay four rounds with my champion?"

"Deputy Diagne is making electoral propaganda of this stuff. It will go big at the next election with his Senegalese electors, but it may not go so big in the courts when the deputy is asked to prove his charges."

"I absolutely defy Diagne to show the slightest atom of proof connecting me with this alleged frameup. You have noticed he was very careful not to mention my name in that connection."

"I believe Deputy Diagne's good faith has been cheated by this negro. Outside of electoral considerations, Diagne perhaps is acting in good faith, but he is making a big mistake in mixing sports with politics. Sports are bad enough without being compared with some of our politics. Couldn't Siki be killed?"

"I have never met Siki in my life. He was pointed out to me one evening in a Montmartre bar room, but his condition was such that it convinced me there was no possible chance of him defeating Carpentier. I would have refused to enter any agreement to let him stay four rounds, even had it been proposed to me."

Deschamps said he protested with greatest energy against these stupid accusations.

"The ambition of Carpentier and myself for the close of our pugilistic life," he continued, "was to get this negro once more into the ring with Georges. . . to get a revenge match. It would have been a suicidal policy on our part to work for his disqualification."

"Georges doesn't want any titles which he does not earn in the ring; thus we intend leaving for America next March. I hope the American and the world public will be satisfied in our innocence. If Carpentier's defeat is due to Grech there will be no question of ever having asked this second-rater, Siki, to quit."

HALE BRINGS JACKET RATS

HUGE AMOUNT START WORK

Louisville, Ky., December 5.—(By the Associated Press.)—The first big deal of the minor league convention was made today when Sammy Hale, third baseman with the Portland, Ore. club, a hitting and fielding sensation of the Pacific Coast league, was sold to the Philadelphia Athletics for players and cash amounting to $75,000.

Hale fielded sensationally last season and bettered over 200,000 fans, said several clubs were bidding for Hale, but Mack outbid them. Middleton did not know how many players would be involved. It would depend upon the value of those selected, he said.

Clarence Rowland, former manager of the Columbus club of the American association, denied reports today that he was considering the management of the Des Moines, Iowa, club of the Western league. There is a possibility that Rowland may become a member of the American league staff of umpires next season.

Bert Niehoff, manager of the pennant-winning St. Louis Cardinals, signed today to pilot the club again next season.

Johnny "Red" Corriden, a former major league star, was signed today to manage the Des Moines, Iowa, club of the Western league, succeeding Jack Graney. Corriden formerly played with the St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago clubs of the National league, and St. Paul. He is an outfielder. For the last two seasons Corriden played the outfield for the St. Joseph, Mo., club.

Meeting Adjourns. After a brief session, the club owners of the American association adjourned tonight without adopting a schedule for the 1923 campaign.

President Hickey said he would call a schedule meeting probably for Chicago when the major leagues definitely decided on their opening dates. It is probable that a 168 game schedule will be adopted.

Trading in the baseball market became so brisk today that something entirely new in bartering systems was started by H. J. Benson, president of the San Antonio club of the Texas league.

Benson posted a list of ten ball players on the pillars of the hotel lobby with the announcement that all of them were on the market. The prices fluctuated when big deals were reported, but before the day was over Benson managed to trade Catcher Johnny Brock, one of the athletes whose name was posted, for Fielder Marshall, of Atlanta.

Pitcher James Bagby, a veteran with the Cleveland Americans, was sold today to the Pittsburgh Nationals, but the purchase price was not announced. Bagby has been with Cleveland for five years. His best season was 1921 when he won 31 games.

The minor leagues held a brief session this afternoon, heard Secretary Farrell's report and adjourned until tomorrow. Secretary Farrell presented a proposal from the major leagues to raise the player limit from 40 to 50, which would give the majors an opportunity to have 25 players in the minors under option. The move probably will be opposed tomorrow.

MARTIN WILL AID SANFORD

BONEY BASKET PILOT. Athens, Ga., December 5.—(Special.)—Sam Boney, pilot on the football team, first baseman of the baseball nine and star athlete at the university, will lead the red-shirted members of Georgia's 1923 basketball squad. Boney, who is one of the few men who have ever been awarded three letters at the university, was elected captain of the team at the conclusion of the first practice held Tuesday afternoon. The new captain is from Columbia, S. C., is a senior in college and a member of the S. A. E. fraternity.

Athens, Ga., December 5.—(Special.)—Peace reigned at the annual meeting of the University of Georgia athletic board here tonight, little work other than the election of an assistant for Dr. S. V. Sanford, faculty director of athletics, being accomplished before adjournment.

Charles E. Martin was named to assist Dr. Sanford in the administration of the many duties that fall upon the office of the athletic director and a better man could not have been located for the task.

The financial report, read by the secretary, showed a nice profit for the year and a surplus is on hand to carry out the splendid athletic program being outlined by the board.

Every section of the state was represented at the meeting. From Atlanta were Harold Hirsch and Marion Smith. Augusta sent Frank Barrett and Columbus members present were Frank Foley, Lem Hill and George Woodruff. Chancellor Barrow, Dean Snelling, T. R. Mott, Hugh H. Gordon, Jr., H. J. Rowe, S. F. Hardeman, E. H. Dorey, Dr. S. V. Sanford and Dr. A. M. Soule were resident members present.

Congress in 1858 made it a condition that not more than $1,000 should be paid for any full length portrait of the president of the United States.

COLORED METHODISTS RECEIVE ASSIGNMENTS

Sylvestre, Ga., December 5.—(Special.)—The South Georgia A. M. E. conference closed its session here today. The colored people attended both night and day from the surrounding towns and from the farms and appeared to be greatly interested in the reports of the pastors and in the sermons and speeches.

The South Georgia quartet, of Moultrie, Ga., sang to the delight of the conference on educational and missionary nights. Fred, the negro farmer of that section manifested interest in the conference.

President John Henry Lewis, of Morris Brown college; Dean W. G. Alexander of Turner Theological seminary, and President A. B. Cooper, of Paine college, Cuthbert, discussed the topic of education and what it has done for the negro in 50 years.

Richard D. Stinson, of the Atlanta Normal and Industrial institute, speaking to the conference Saturday night, said: "The education most needed for the negro masses is that of farming, blacksmithing, car-entry, stone and brick masonry, and the kind that produces good workmen."

Bishop Flipper talked to the preachers, urging them to go into the communities where he would send them and preach the gospel of Jesus Christ and to build the people up in the things that would help them to be useful. He said, "You are sent as messengers of peace and not messengers of disturbance. You are expected to build up the church and save the souls, lives and bodies of the people."

"Our next conference," he said, "will be at Thomasville, Ga. I shall expect each of you to report there having done a good year's work. Many of you desire to go to Bainbridge, but the majority decided to do otherwise. Do your best in the work of the Lord."

The assignments follow: Bainbridge district, S. M. Gillard, presiding elder; Nelson chapel, C. P. Hobbs; Walhalla, J. T. Thornton; Atlanta, W. B. Lawrence; Cuthbert, C. H. Deming; Fowlton, A. J. MANY GAMES PLAYED IN G. I. A. A. ARE THROWN OUT

Effect of Ruling Means No Grid Champion Named During Recent Campaign

All Games In Which Ineligible Players Competed Thrown Out By Alexander.
All G. I. A. A. Team Named.

BY ROY E. WHITE.

There is no Georgia Intercollegiate Athletic association football champion for this year, due to a decision reached at a meeting of the league representatives Tuesday afternoon, held in the Y. M. C. A.

The Princeton alumni trophy to be awarded the team winning the championship for three consecutive times is now in the possession of G. M. C. title holder of last season. The trophy will most likely be returned to the president of the league, O. K. David, and held until next year when another leg will be fought for.

Coach W. A. Alexander, of Georgia Tech, was invited to the meeting and was voted unanimously to settle a controversy that arose between G. M. C. and Riverside on November 4 at Columbus when G. M. C. defeated Riverside.

Riverside contended that G. M. C. used an ineligible player, but it developed at the meeting that other teams of the association had violated the eligibility rules and each voted to abide by the decision of Alexander.

Alexander stated that in all cases where the rules have been violated and not counted. That leaves both

G. M. C. and Riverside as undefeated teams in the G. I. A. A. with the cancellation of the November 4 game. Along with a decision Coach Alexander gave a very impressive talk on the rules and regulations which an organization should abide by.

To Meet in January.
A meeting of the league will be held in January to elect or appoint a governing board for the league and that governing board will have full control in all matters pertaining to rules and regulations by which games shall be played.

Letters will be mailed to all the accredited high and prep schools of the state inviting them to become a member of the organization at the January meeting.

Those present at the meeting were W. A. Alexander of Tech in the interest of better prep athletics in the south; retiring President Blair, of Lanier High; President-elect O. K. David, of Boys' High; C. T. Tolbert, of Tech High; Sandy Beaver, of Riverside; Claude Satterfield, of Gordon; J. H. Walker, of Monroe, and W. J. Davis, of G. M. C.

The new officers elected were O. K. David, of Boys' High, as president; Sandy Beaver, of Riverside, vice president; Claude Satterfield, of Gordon, secretary and treasurer.

The annual G. I. A. A. basketball tournament will be held in Macon, Ga., the last Thursday, Friday and Saturday of February and it is hoped that more teams will be represented in the league.

There was much discussion on the building of prep athletics in Georgia and Alexander gave a talk that will be long remembered by those present. He has been working for the past several years trying to help athletics in the south and his work in amateur and prep circles has been very much appreciated.

An all-state prep football team was named at the meeting. The pick was submitted by three of the representatives and the picks were unanimous the pick follows:

Ends, Howard of G. M. C., and Langston, of Lanier High; tackles, Justice, of Gordon and Evridge, of G. M. C.; guards, Hardin, of Tech High and Scholl, of Riverside; center, Wilder, of Riverside; quarterback, Lawrence, of Gordon; halfbacks, McMillan, of G. M. C. and Rowfield, of Riverside; fullback, Davis, of G. M. C.

3-MILE RACE ON SATURDAY

BL HERMAN, D. HANCOCK.

The third annual Southern Methodist intercollegiate road race will be held on the Emory track Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock with the Hill-billies defending the twice won title as Southern Methodist champions. Teams from seven Methodist schools will be in the race, and some of the south's best distance men will set the pace for the four-mile course selected as the battleground for the classic.

Trinity, under the leadership of Blakely and Mabry, will have a team which the Blue and Gold team will have to watch and out pace if they are to be the winners again this year. Randolph-Macon has one of the strongest teams she has ever put in the field, and Wofford is reported to be possessed of a couple of the most consistent striders in the south.

To defend the southern title the Hill-billies have only three of the old guard of the team which did such good work last season. Mitchell, who will captain the team, and Peterson Graydon will be expected to uphold the Emory colors in the fray for the upper classmen, while the team will be supported by Crow, Williams and Byrd, all new runners and inexperienced as far as intercollegiate competition goes. This will place the Emory team at a disadvantage, since all the others have had meets with other schools and have the advantage of knowing just what each man can do under the stress of keen competition and foreign pacing.

Track Snathers, coach of the Emory team, said that the Emory team was in the best condition possible, but that the race would be harder than it was in the last meet, when the Emory boys placed the first four runners, the entire Emory team, across the finishing line ahead of all competitors.

Teams will be entered from Birmingham-Southern, Emory-Henry, Florida, Randolph-Macon, Trinity, Wofford and Emory. It will be one of the fastest distance runs to take place in Atlanta this fall. All the teams have had excellent coaching and all of the invaders are coming to Emory with the determination to carry the large silver trophy back to the school which they represent. If the Hill-billies win the trophy this time it becomes the permanent property of Emory university under the rules of the competition.

He has been working for the past several years trying to help athletics in the south and his work in amateur and prep circles has been very much appreciated.

Viewing the News

By CLIFF WHEATLEY

The Georgia Intercollegiate Athletic association hasn't a football champion any more than a whale has seas. In producing champions the preps are far behind their older brothers.

The Southern Intercollegiate conference is sporting three title holders on its watch fob, and even the old Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association is stumbling along with a couple of champions.

Coach William A. Alexander was pressed into service yesterday to serve as the Solomon to decide between Riverside's and G. M. C.'s claims for the prep championship. Alex heard all the testimony and dithered both claims.

He told the assembled delegates that two wrongs will not make a right. This is such plain English that even One-eyed Connally could grasp its import if he heard it long enough.

G. M. C. played an ineligible player because several other schools did the same thing. It was impossible to make an example of the Millidgeville school and let the others go free.

Coach Alex simply threw out every game in which an ineligible football player had participated, wished the assembled gentlemen a very merry Christmas, and went out to take a squirt at his Yellow Jacket basketballers.

That meeting will have its effect. The various faculty representatives now know that rules adopted must be followed. At a later meeting in January the association will appoint a committee and give its members some real authority.

Which should put an end to all violations of the organization's rules and work for better prep athletics in this state. "Goodness knows, John, we need them," as Friend Wied said when new tires were discussed.

"Ho, hum!" was genial Walk Miller's remark the other day when he noted that the south's football season had come to a close. Walk is a business man whose commercial activities are usually confined to the kingdom of the vegetable car.

Passing of football means revived interest in the glove sport, and Walk wasn't slow to see the prospects surrounding a box fight in the near future. It is his business to keep an eye on his fighters and a finger on the public pulse.

The time is ripe, seize for a re-sumption of the pastime that makes for cauliflower auricles. Followed conferences with "Red" Herring and Battling Budd. Then the announcement that these young men will meet Friday at the Auditorium.

The same sort of figuring that made Tech favorite over Auburn after the Plainsmen had stopped Centre; the same brand that made Lew Silver odds-on to defeat Battling Barnett in their second meeting sends Budd to the post favored to win.

Herring, conceded to be one of the hardest-hitting young men in the business, is a match for anybody in the boxing department, yet most any exploit will back you into a corner and prove that Herring hasn't a chance.

Now, it's the reader's turn to nominate something that takes quicker slants than this old thing called sport.

Our good friend, Frank Kopf, says he never knew of a man who could run 25 yards in one second. Don't guess Frank ever saw a Pullman porter going by a graveyard or Ralph Jones catching the last Decatur car.

Wonder if Frank ever noticed the speed of a depositor who has been told that a run has started on the bank which sends him notifications of overdrafts three times a month?

Watch the sport paragraphs when Oscar Egg, leading the field in the six-day bicycle races at New York, takes a tumble, as all good bicycle riders do in the course of one of these sleep-producing events.

Think of the gems of wit that will be hatched when Egg cracks.

Four Dates for Kentucky.
Lexington, Ky., December 5.—Four dates for the University of Kentucky's 1923 football card definitely had been determined today. These games as announced by S. A. Boles, director of athletics, were: Centre at Danville, November 3; Alabama at Birmingham, November 10; Tennessee at Lexington, November 20; Georgia Tech at Atlanta, November 17.

KY. IS AFTER COACH WADE

Nashville, Tenn., December 5.—(Special).—Loss of Wallace Wade, associate to Dan McGuffin in placing the Commodore upon such a lofty peak of pignisk, faces Vanderbilt.

From authoritative sources it has been learned that the former Brown star, who was an All-American selection and played on the eleven which defeated both Yale and Harvard, has been offered a most attractive inducement to tutor Kentucky State and the Mississippi Aggies. What is more he has been mentioned on numerous occasions as a possibility to solving the coaching tangle at Sewanee created through the failure of Nicholson.

The Commodore associate as yet has given no serious consideration to the attractive offers, although it is possible he may yet decide to cast his lot with another college in a capacity as head coach. He has won an enviable reputation through his splendid tutoring of the Vandy line which has reflected his fundamental teachings on numerous occasions.

With his tutoring mirrored by the magnificent line play he naturally has attracted much attention as a coaching possibility among other colleges where he is desired as a full term tutor.

He is an all-year man at Vanderbilt and through his exhaustive attention to the Commodore line, Coach Dan McGuffin has been able to devote more attention to straggling, devising emergency defensive tactics and planning campaigns to solve difficult problems presented by the opposition.

In short it has been the line methods of Wallace Wade, the tactics of Dan McGuffin designed to meet various puzzling situations and the sterling work of Lewis Hardage among the which which have crowned Vanderbilt with success.

The Commodores would be handicapped without the aid of Wallace Wade, but if possibilities of advancement are offered none can do ought but consent to his departure.

TIGERS WANT GRID COACH
Sewanee, Tenn., December 5.—(Special).—In an interview this morning Coach John P. Nicholson, speaking as athletic director of the University of the South, declared that in his opinion the time had come when Sewanee should obtain the services of the best football coach that can be found.

Mr. Nicholson said, "The exigencies of the one-year rule and Sewanee's determination to maintain her relations with the strongest colleges in spite of her small student body, make it absolutely necessary to get the fullest value from the football material which we do get."

"This means that we must have a coach of the very highest order." He further said that he had fully made up his mind to bring this matter before the athletic authorities of the university immediately, so that they might proceed at once to secure the best man that can be found.

In the future Mr. Nicholson will devote himself to the general athletic interests of the university as his position demands.

Meets Penn State.
Portland, Ore., December 5.—The University of Southern California's football team was selected to meet the Penn State eleven in the New Year's game at Pasadena, Cal., according to announcement received here tonight from Dr. U. G. Dubock, president of the Pacific Coast Inter-Collegiate conference.

Doc Kuhn Captain.
Nashville, Tenn., December 5.—Oliver (Doc) Kuhn, Vanderbilt quarterback, was tonight elected captain of the Commodore eleven for 1923 at the annual football banquet. It was announced that Vanderbilt has received invitations to accept drafts both on the Princeton and Navy schedule next fall. Sixteen letters were awarded to members of the football squad.

Joyful Family Reunion
"Two of my brothers, a sister, as well as myself have been chronic sufferers from gas in stomach, indigestion, pain in right side near appendix and liver trouble for many years. My sister, Friedl May's Wonderful Remedy with such good results that we all took a course of it and it helped in each case. Last Sunday we had a family reunion in celebration of our recovery and what we all did eat. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. Marshall to San Antonio For Brock; Cash Is Given For Niehaus, Slabman

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY.

Jack Corbett, president of the Atlanta Baseball association, continues his merry little pastime of shipping the players that carried the Crackers to the cellar in the late lamented campaign, the while he adds new names to the roster.

A wire from President Corbett yesterday sent from Louisville where he is swapping bum jokes and bumper signs with upliners, brought the information that Catcher Brock had been traded to the Crackers; and that the Atlanta club had dug into its bank account for enough money to bring Niehaus, a pitcher, to this city next spring.

Brock comes to Atlanta in exchange for Dewey Marshall, who is likely to receive his mail in San Antonio during the summer, as it was with this franchise that President Corbett did business. Niehaus was with the Reading club of the International league last summer.

Corbett has a right to chuckle with gloe over the transaction that brought Brock to his roster. More than that, Jack ought to leave Louisville at once and stay away until the deal is consummated. San Antonio officials might wake up.

Marshall might be able to pull the grade in Texas, but there is little question about the Virginia collegian being through in the Southern league. A change of scenery may make him a world-beater, but if Brock is any good at all Corbett has every reason to feel jubilant over the deal.

From Cincinnati Reds.
Marshall came to the Crackers from the Cincinnati Reds. He was loaned to the club in the same deal that sent Cliff Marble to Cincinnati. That was in 1921, and Dewey looked good for the rest of the season.

It was generally believed that he would prove the most valuable pitcher on the Atlanta payroll in 1922, as his showing at Bay St. Louis proved that he had everything a good pitcher needed.

But after a fine start, in which it was his work that kept the locals within calling distance of the rest of the field, Dewey slipped like the others and the end of the season found him hopelessly discouraged.

This reporter knows nothing about Brock's record as a catcher. Official figures concerning the Texas league have not been given out at headquarters, but we do know that President Corbett isn't likely to be led into something that will bump him. Corbett has often stated that his first-string catcher must be husky, intelligent and courageous. We take it that Brock fills the bill, else the Atlanta president would be looking elsewhere for his backstop.

Well-Known Player.
Niehaus is a well-known figure in baseball. He was sent here last year by the Atlanta club before joining the Reading club, if this writer's memory is correct.

Dewey's departure leaves but three of the old-guard to carry on. Eddie Moore, the expensive young man brought out of the Florida league last year by Bell Jackson Spiller, when the latter was signing checks as high as $100 in the Atlanta franchise, still clings to a place on the team and will probably be among those present when the birds begin to sing in the spring.

Sammy Guyon is still a member of the team. Guyon was with the Crackers at Ponce de Leon last year, feuded his own nest the other day by arranging a deal with the Atlanta club, and it is really better, when he will be shipped to the Texas league before getting another trial in the big time.

Oscar May Pitch.
Oscar May, the hurling Cuban, hasn't been traded yet by President Corbett, and there is a good chance that Oscar will pitch for the Crackers again in 1923.

Corbett is in Louisville for the avowed purpose of getting together a team that will make it interesting for the others in this coop, going away with the salary limit will prove a much assistance, as Jack isn't a bit bashful about talking in big figures when he is out gunning for pastimers.

It is believed that some announcements likely to make the fans dream of seeing the pennant floating in center field will be given out by President Corbett when he reaches Atlanta during the latter part of the week.

Joe Bean Says Georgia Tech Five Will Be Strongest in History

Fine Schedule Has Been Arranged for Jackets. Play Athletic Club in Opener.

BY JOHN STATON.
Coach Joe Bean, who is again in charge of Tech basketball, predicts the best team that has ever represented the school.

That is saying a great deal, for away back yonder in the dark ages Tech turned out some mighty fat quintets. But he made that statement yesterday with precision.

And, indeed, they did look good. It is, of course, too early for much to be developed, but the initial showing is most encouraging. To begin with, all the men out seem to have better wind than they did at this time last season. They are handling the ball cleaner, passing the ball better, and can find the goal with more accuracy than heretofore. That in itself should be a big basis for improvement. But

SHUGRUE WINNER OVER JACKSON BY KAYO

Jersey City, December 5.—Going down to the first knockout of his career, Willie Jackson, Bronx veteran ringster, gave way to young Johnny Shugrue Monday night in the tenth round of the scheduled 12-round principal which opened the Arena A. C. The fight was one of the hardest fought battles seen in Jersey City in many months.

After going to the canvas on the sixth, eighth and ninth rounds, at the end of the tenth Jackson was downed for several counts, regained his feet and was put out for good. After six counts the going sounded and Shugrue was dragged to his corner by his seconds. He was in such condition, however, that he could not go on with the bout, and Chairman Louis A. Messore, of the New Jersey athletic commission, ordered Inspector William J. Day to stop the bout. Referee Johnny Healy declared the bout ended with a knockout for Shugrue.

ARCHER STILL AFTER FIGHT FOR WILLARD
Los Angeles, Cal., December 5.—Ray Archer, business manager for Jess Willard, former heavyweight boxing champion, has arrived here to meet Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, and his manager, Jack Kearns, who are expected to arrive here Thursday, in an effort to arrange a return bout between Dempsey and Willard.

"I am in hopes that Kearns will give Jess a return match," says Archer. "Tex Rickard, promoter, says he thinks a return bout between Dempsey and Willard the biggest thing on the promotion line at this time."

Willard resumed training on Archer's arrival.

YOUTH KILLS MAN TO SAVE FATHER

Was in Act of Attacking With Knife, According to Statements, When Shot Was Fired.

Cleveland, Ga., December 5.—(Special.)—Paul Morris, age 12, shot and killed Bright Gillstrap Monday at Stewart's corn mill, in the western part of White county.

Gillstrap and Paul's father, known as "Little Jim" Morris, quarreled at Morris' store, near the mill. Morris left the store and went over to the mill where his son was waiting for a turn of meal to be ground. Gillstrap followed Morris to the mill and the quarrel was renewed. Gillstrap, meeting Morris at the door, struck him a blow and Morris fell to the floor. As Morris rose, Gillstrap struck him another blow and then, with knife in hand, it is alleged, was in the act of attacking Morris. Paul, standing near with a shotgun in hand, took aim and fired a load of shot into Gillstrap's right side.

Gillstrap lived about an hour. Paul Morris was taken into custody and placed in the county jail. His father came along with the son to keep the meal to be served. He has been made against the father.

COUNCIL OF P.-T. A. TO DISCUSS BONDS

VICTIM OF AUTO SMASH IN TOCOOA MAY RECOVER

Toocoo, Ga., December 5.—(Special.)—Carl Young, an employee of the Toocoo Furniture company, who was seriously injured in an automobile accident Sunday afternoon, now has a slight chance for recovery, according to attending physicians. It was at first thought his injuries would prove fatal.

Mr. Young, in company with W. P. Stephens, superintendent of the Cappe Manufacturing company, was driving into town Sunday afternoon, evidently at a rapid rate of speed, when their car struck a reinforced concrete post in the center of the street in front of the Albemarle hotel.

The injured man was riding in the rear seat of the car at the time of the accident and was thrown to the pavement some distance away by the impact. He did not regain consciousness until late this afternoon. Mr. Stephens, who was driving the car, was unhurt.

PARENT-TEACHER FRIDAY TO HEAR KEY AND LARGE

Mayor Key and Postmaster Edwin Large will be honor guests and principal speakers at a meeting and entertainment to be staged by the North Avenue Parent-Teacher association next Friday night at the North Avenue school.

On the program of entertainment Bobby North, professional reader, is the headline. Mr. North, who wrote "Under Cover," the play given recently by the Tech Marionettes, will give a number of readings.

Mrs. Susie Reese Kennedy, director of the choir of the Associate Reform Presbyterian church, will render several piano solos. Refreshments are to be served. Mrs. W. L. Schell, president of the association, will preside.

American people drink about 500,000,000 gallons of carbonated beverages each year.

Preachers at the Baptist Convention

Reading from left to right: Dr. Charles B. Williams, of Macon, who preached Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock; Dr. B. J. W. Graham, of Atlanta, who will preach Wednesday at 12 o'clock; and Dr. Charles W. Daniel, of Atlanta, who preached Tuesday at 8 o'clock. These sermons were all at the Baptist tabernacle.

GEORGIA BAPTISTS CONSIDER MERGING

The convention at the beginning of the convention sessions in order that the messengers may have this background for the several discussions that come before the body in planning for the coming year's work. Dr. Cree will make a similar address this year and it will follow the president's address.

The committee appointed by the convention last year to arrange the details for the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the convention will make its report following Dr. Cree's address. This committee is composed of the following: Aquila Chamley, Forsyth, chairman; B. D. Ragsdale, Macon; Rufus W. Weaver, Macon; Warren Grice, Macon; C. W. Minor, Americus; W. J. Barton, Edison; Clifford Walker, Monroe; J. C. Wilkinson, Athens; Arch C. Cree, Atlanta, and Louie D. Newton, Atlanta.

The morning session will come to a close with the annual convention sermon by Dr. P. J. W. Graham, of Atlanta. Dr. Graham is a prominent figure in the convention, having been for many years one of the leading pastors of the state and was editor of The Christian Index from 1900 to 1920. Dr. Graham's sermon will begin at 12 o'clock. His theme is "The Prevalence of Christ" and his treatment will carry his hearers through a comprehensive study of the basic doctrines of Christianity.

Addressment will be at 1 o'clock and this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the convention will assemble to hear the report on Christian education which will be read by Rev. H. D. Wainwright, pastor of the First Baptist church of Milledgeville. This report will cover the work of the Mercer university system of schools and colleges. Dr. Rufus W. Weaver is chancellor of this system and he will be expected to speak to the report touching the work of Mercer university, of which he is the president. The entire system in so far as general plans on the part of the convention may have to do for the future.

There is keen anticipation on the part of the messengers to the convention to hear the report of the trustees of Mercer university and of Bessie Tift college for the reason that within the last few days the newspapers have carried announcements of prevailing sentiment on the part of some of the friends of these institutions to propose some form of merger which will bring the institutions more nearly into one university. Nothing definite has been given out so far as to the lines along which such a proposed merger might develop. Judge W. H. Davis, of Waynesboro, is chairman of the Bessie Tift board. Asked yesterday if they had any announcement to make, he replied that they did not. There was a joint meeting of the Mercer and Bessie Tift boards Monday night and it is not unlikely that some definite announcement in the form of a recommendation may come to the convention Wednesday afternoon under the discussion of the institutions.

The merger of the convention toward this suggestion has not been tested and will not be known before the discussion Wednesday afternoon. It is hardly probable that the convention will be willing to go further than hear any recommendations that the trustees of the two institutions may wish to offer. Final action would likely be deferred on any recommendation touching so important a matter as the merger of the institutions for at least a year.

The Mercer university system of schools and colleges is composed of Mercer university in Macon; Bessie Tift college, A. Chamley, president, in Forsyth; Locust Grove institute, Claude Gray, president, Locust Grove; Brewton-Parker institute, A. M. Gates, president, Mt. Vernon; Norman institute, L. H. Browning, president, Norman Park; Piedmont institute, W. C. Carlton, president, Waycross; Gibson-Mercer academy, Bowman, Charles W. Henderson, president; Heran academy, Ira D. Harris, president, Cave Springs; Mary P. Williamson school, W. L. Cutts, president, Blue Ridge; Bleckley Memorial institute, E. N. Snow, president, Clayton; Chattahoochee high school, J. W. Adams, president, Concord; Hiwassee academy, Hiwassee, M. B. Nelson, president, and Morganton High school and Blairsville institute.

These institutions have holdings in endowment and realty valued at $2,900,000, and a total enrollment of students of more than 4,000. The report of these institutions will bear record to a fine growth along all lines.

The $750,000,000 campaign. The convention will meet for a night session at 7:30 o'clock when addresses and reports on the work of the Baptist $750,000,000 campaign will be the feature.

Before the report on the campaign it is announced that prohibition Commissioner Roy O. Haynes will speak of the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment. The $750,000,000 campaign is the five-year program which the Baptists of the south launched in December, 1919. The movement was really started in the meeting of the Southern Baptist convention in Atlanta in May, 1919. The movement spread throughout the south like a wave on the boom of the sea and more than $2,000,000 was subscribed the first week of December, that year to be paid in the five years. The third year has not yet in hand for this year, but it was estimated at the Baptist headquarters in the Palmer building last night that the final count would be about $750,000 for this year. The report will be received with pleasure, in view of the fact that this has been one of the hardest years the state has known. Dr. Arch C. Cree, director for Georgia, in this great campaign, will give exact figures this evening when he reports on the campaign. In speaking of the record for the year last night, he said:

"I believe that it is in many respects the greatest year we have ever known in our Georgia Baptist work. Our people have given, many of them, out of their needs and it is teaching us the blessedness of sacrifice."

Pre-convention Conference. Tuesday was a remarkable day in the history of Georgia Baptists. It brought together in the Baptist Tabernacle several hundred ministers and laymen from every section of Georgia for the second annual pastors' and laymen's conference. The meeting was purely inspirational. There was no business to be attended to no committees to report and no details to bother.

It was a meeting of prayer, praise and testimony with two very able sermons interspersed. The meeting began at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon with Dr. F. C. McConnell, of Atlanta, presiding. Rev. D. B. Nicholson, of Jeffersonville, conducted the singing.

Rev. J. E. Hudson, of Adairsville, conducted the opening devotion. He read the 53rd chapter of Isaiah and pointed the thought of the messengers to the prophecy of that prophet touching the coming of the Messiah and declared that he believed it to be a fine scripture lesson for a conference which was setting as its central theme "The Uplifted Christ."

Rev. D. Albert Howard, pastor at Fort Valley, spoke on "The Shepherd Heart" and greatly stirred the convention as he emphasized the great place of the pastor in his daily contact with his people in their troubles as well as in their joys. His address was followed with prayer by Rev. Z. E. Barron, of Boston.

Rev. George W. Garner, of Atlanta, conducted a session of prayer in which he dwelt upon the absolute importance of prayer in the life of the Christian, declaring that he believed it to be more significant than the press, more powerful than money. Rev. E. L. Harrison, Rev. Charles T. Brown, Rev. Carl Minor and Dr. John F. Purser offered prayer.

Williams Preaches. The sermon of the afternoon was delivered by Dr. Charles B. Williams, professor of New Testament interpretation in the school of theology at Mercer university. Dr. Williams preached on "The Cross of Christ." He declared that he believed with Paul, the writer of the letter to the Ephesians, that to understand the cross of Christ was to understand the wisdom and power of God. Dr. Williams is a preacher of the expository type, and his sermon at once appealed to his audience yesterday, which was largely composed of preachers and laymen who know what preaching is when they see it. His sermon was clear and effective. He spoke in the conversational tone of the teacher, but his voice carried clearly to every part of the large auditorium.

Following the sermon by Dr. Williams an open conference was conducted by Dr. Homer L. Grice, of Washington, in which Dr. W. H. Mason of Atlanta; Dr. Russell Owen, of Macon; Dr. C. N. Donaldson, of Atlanta; Dr. H. Faust, of Atlanta, and Dr. W. A. Hogan, of Lincolnton, as vice presidents, and Rev. L. E. Dutton, of Cartersville, secretary.

Reiser Preaches. At the evening hour yesterday Rev. J. A. Reiser, pastor at Swainboro, conducted the devotion after

Rev. C. J. White, of Hamilton, had conducted the song service. Mr. Reiser emphasized the fact that Christian people must give Christ the pre-eminence in their own lives, in their homes and in their relations with other men, citing as his reason for this statement the teaching of the Bible that Christ was given the pre-eminence in the creation of the world, in the prophecies of the Old Testament touching the working out of the plan of redemption of the world and for the pre-eminence which Christ was given by the writers of the New Testament.

The sermon of the evening was preached by Dr. Charles W. Daniel, pastor of the First Baptist church of Atlanta. The sermon was at once an appeal to the best thinking of his hearers and Dr. Daniel held their attention without reserve for more than an hour as he presented his masterful sermon from Luke 11:20-22. "The love of Christ constraineth because we thus judge that if one died for all then we are all dead, and that he died for all that they which live should not henceforth live unto themselves, but unto him which did for them and rose again; wherefore, henceforth know we no man after the flesh. Yea, though we have known Christ after the flesh, yet now henceforth know we him no more."

Christ Changes Life. Dr. Daniel moved into his sermon with the characteristic ease of the expository preacher and he took up the passage and dealt with it in a fashion which made it have new meaning for his every listener. He declared that when a man has accepted Jesus Christ as savior that it will transform his attitude toward God and that it will change his attitude toward himself and his duties to his fellowmen. It was altogether one of the most remarkable sermons that has been heard in a session of the convention in many years.

Dr. B. S. Bailey was then asked to conduct an open conference in which hearty testimony was given by the following: W. H. Moody, of Canton, S. S. Mathis, of Savannah; F. C. McConnell, of Atlanta; R. L.

Bolton, of Milledgeville; J. H. Webb, of Monroe; J. F. Cargile, of Macon; Z. E. Barron, of Boston; E. C. Cowan, of Sparks; C. F. J. Tate, of Atlanta; Mr. Leitdheinstein, of St. Louis; J. S. McLemore, of Atlanta; W. M. Seay, of Atlanta and W. M. Anderson, of Waynesboro. The night session adjourned with prayer by Dr. D. W. Key.

Important Work Ahead. An open conference conducted by Dr. B. S. Bailey, superintendent of the field work of the convention, resulted in many fervent prayers and testimonies by the ministers and laymen who were present.

The convention tomorrow will deal with many important matters. The report on foreign missions will come Thursday morning, and Dr. J. F. Love, of Richmond, Va., corresponding secretary of the foreign mission board, will deliver an address at noon. The report on the Christian Index will be heard Thursday morning with Rev. J. S. Hartsfield, of Toocoo, reading the report.

IF BILIOUS, SICK! TAKE NO CALOMEL

"Dodson's Liver Tone" Straightens You Up Better Than Salivating, Dangerous Calomel and Doesn't Upset You—Don't Lose a Day's Work—Read Guarantee

You're bilious! Your liver is sluggish! You feel lazy, dizzy and all knocked out. Your head is dull, your tongue is coated; breath bad; stomach sour and bowels constipated. But don't take salivating calomel. It makes you sick, you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel crashes into sour bile like dynamite, breaking it up. That's when you feel that awful nausea and cramping.

If you want to enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight. Your druggist or dealer sells you a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents under my personal money-back guarantee that each spoonful will clean your sluggish liver better than a dose of nasty calomel and that it won't make you sick.

Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working, your headache and dizziness gone, your stomach will be sweet and your bowels regular. You will feel like working; you'll be cheerful and full of vigor.

Dodson's Liver Tone is entirely vegetable, therefore harmless and can not salivate. Give it to your children.

Standing on Their Merits

When you buy good products made at home you are not only getting goods that stand on their own merits—products just as good as are made anywhere—but you are helping the folks at home—helping concerns which have millions of dollars invested, and helping thousands of home people who are employed in our home plants and factories.

The more home manufactured goods consumed by our home people, the more home people can be employed in our mills and factories and various industrial enterprises.

There are lots of good products made here at home. There is no reason why our home people should not call for and use them.

Gift Suggestions For Men

THE season of remembrance will soon be upon us, and you'll want to remember your men friends or relatives with suitable gifts from a man's store. For instance, any man would like:

A Tuxedo or Full Dress Suit, a Tuxedo or Full Dress Vest, and the correct accessories such as studs, buttons, ties, gloves, etc.

Or, perhaps he'd rather have a warm Lounging Robe, a Smoking Jacket, half a dozen Silk Shirts or a handsome Overcoat. And, of course, he must have hosts of Ties, Kerchiefs, Socks.

Whatever you choose (and women may buy with as much safety as men) you may be sure it will be something he will appreciate for its worth and good taste—if it comes from "Carlton's."

Marionettes Perform For Fine Arts Club Tuesday

BY GRACE FISCHER.

A tiny stage with a soft blue velvet curtain, footlights and properties for all the world like that of a real theater, and the most charming little actors that can be imagined—marionettes—to play the play—this is what was in store for members of the Fine Arts club Tuesday morning when 11 o'clock they met at "Bide-a-Wee," the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Witham, on Peachtree road, for one of the most brilliant programs of the year.

Suzette's marionettes, so-called by Miss Virginia Bowman and Mrs. Roy Dorsey, who manipulate them, were so utterly alluring and fascinating that we wondered afterwards how many of the women present yearned to start a new hobby, and that a marionette hobby. Miss Bowman assured the audience that a puppet show constitutes the most delightful hobby in the world, and we, for our part, longed to start immediately with scissors and glue, paint and pieces of old wood, to make a puppet show, and to see how completely we were charmed by Suzette's stage and Suzette's marionettes. Fascinating they were in every way.

The play presented by Suzette's players was "Hansel and Gretel," a puppet play in two acts, with incidental music, but before the little blue velvet curtain was drawn, Miss Virginia Bowman, talented Atlanta girl, who is well-known for her literary work among children, and is the first person to start a puppet show here, gave a talk on marionettes.

Miss Bowman introduced. The guests were assembled in the library of Mrs. Witham's home, where, on a banquet table at one end of the room, was placed the miniature theater.

Miss Nan Stephens, honorary president of the Fine Arts club, introduced Miss Bowman, who, standing before the miniature theater, traced the development of marionettes from the early times to the present day, explaining that though there were probably puppets in the Orient, in China in 1000 B. C., and also in Greece in the time of Socrates, the art as we know it today was undoubtedly born in Italy as far back as the middle ages, and out of a religious ceremonial.

The marionettes have just recently become popular in this city, and are largely through Tony Sarg, all over the country. Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Brown, in Chicago, who recently presented "Alice in Wonderland" at the little theater there, in Cincinnati and in San Francisco. Miss Bowman, for a long time a marionette enthusiast, did her first work with puppets last year in New York, where she was assistant to the supervisor of work with children in the New York public libraries. She learned the technical side of puppet shows from Tony Sarg himself, and the making and dressing of the puppets from Miss Lillian Owen, who was formerly associated with Mr. Sarg, but now has her own studio on Forty-Second street.

The marionettes that were presented were brought from New York, but Miss Bowman says that she and Mrs. Dorsey intend to make their own hereafter, just as they have made their own stage and scenery. She thinks that a puppet show is a splendid plaything for a child, and offered to show mothers how to teach their children to construct and manipulate the tiny theater and the players.

The Play Begins. Tinkling music sounded from an old-fashioned music box at the conclusion of the talk, and the velvet curtains opened on the first act of "Hansel and Gretel," showing a deep forest where Hansel and Gretel find the way to a most entrancing little cottage, which, if it wasn't gingerbread, was certainly gingerbread, and decorated with the most alluring peppermint sticks. Of course, they were grabbed by the witch, a very diminutive creature to be so gosh, and the curtain closed.

The tinkling music box sounded again, and the curtain opening showed a fortnight later the same scene but with a cage containing Hansel. The audience was asked to "mark well the strength of the cage, and the oven that catenched both in a rage," and they did mark with very great enthusiasm how expertly the strings were pulled by Miss Bowman and Mrs. Dorsey. It was expertly and beautifully done.

The next meeting of the Fine Arts club will be held at the home of Mrs. Preston Arkwright on January 6, when Miss Madeline Krippe will speak on "Pottery and Glass Ware," and will show some specimens. Anyone who has rare pieces of pottery that she would be willing to have on exhibit is asked to communicate with Mrs. Arkwright or Mrs. Wilmer Moore.

The Junior League Will Equip Model Kindergarten

At the meeting of the junior league Tuesday afternoon in the Piedmont Driving club plans were outlined for establishing a kindergarten in the Atlanta Child's home. The junior league will also equip the kindergarten with all of the tables and chairs and the necessary articles to make it most up-to-date and splendid. In addition to this undertaking two members of the league will give their services every day in assisting the teachers with the children of kindergarten age.

The Atlanta Child's home is one of the most worthy Atlanta charities which cares for little children. It is situated on Angier avenue and is sponsored by a number of other good workers. The junior league, which is composed of the most prominent young women and girls in Atlanta, will take over the kindergarten work entirely.

There are 43 children in this home, ranging all the way from three weeks to five years. Mrs. John Holmes is chairman of the kindergarten work and will be assisted by Mrs. Langdon Quin as co-chairman.

Mrs. Payne Is Hostess.

Mrs. J. Carroll Payne was hostess Tuesday at her home on Peachtree road in compliment to Miss Anne Grant and Miss Douglas Palmer, two popular debutantes of the season.

Large baskets of yellow and white chrysanthemums with quantities of southern smilax were effectively used in the decorations of the home.

The table in the dining room was overlaid with a handsome lace cover, a large silver basket filled with pink roses and narcissi, graced the center, encircled by silver candlesticks holding pink unshaded tapers.

Mrs. Payne was assisted in entertaining by her daughters, Mrs. Alex Smith, Jr., and Mrs. John Hopkins, junior.

Covers were laid for 40 guests, including some of the members of the Debutante club and a few intimate friends of the hostess.

Miss Nevins Is Honored.

A social event of Tuesday was the luncheon given by Mrs. Eugene Harrington at the Capital City club in compliment to Miss Mary Nevins, one of the season's popular and lovely debutantes.

The perfectly appointed table was overlaid with a lace cloth, and the centerpiece was a silver basket of Ophelia roses and swansons encircled by silver candlesticks holding unshaded pink tapers.

Miss Nevins was gowned in dark blue satin and a black velvet hat completed her costume.

Mrs. Harrington wore a three-piece suit of blue and gray duvetyne with gray hat to match. The guests included Miss Nevins, Miss Dorothy Dodd, Miss Sarah Orme, Miss Cornelia Torrence, Miss Emily Davis, Miss Mae Emory and Mrs. Julian Thomas.

Mrs. Rankin Weds Douglas M. Smith In Baltimore

The marriage of Mrs. Margaret Thomas Rankin and Douglas M. Smith, of Williamsport, Pa., which took place Monday, December 4, in Baltimore, Md., at the home of the bride's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas, is of cordial interest to a wide circle of friends in Atlanta.

Mrs. Smith is the second daughter of Mrs. Margaret Rankin Thomas, and a sister of Mrs. Pratt Adams, of Savannah. She is a niece of Charles W. Crankshaw and the daughter-in-law of Mrs. Charles A. Goteley. Mrs. Smith was educated at a French convent near Washington, D. C., is a most beautiful and attractive young woman, combined with a charming personality. Her beauty is of a decided brunette type. Mr. Smith is the only son of Ralph Smith, of Williamsport, who is a very prominent and wealthy furniture manufacturer and one of the best known men throughout Pennsylvania. He and his father are associated together in business. Mr. Smith graduated from Lawrenceville and was an honor graduate of the University of Pennsylvania. He fought during the entire war of France and Italian soil, and was decorated by the king of Italy.

After a wedding journey abroad, Mr. Smith and his bride will reside in a handsome estate on the Susquehanna river, near Williamsport.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunt Are Honored.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Watkins were hosts at an informal tea Tuesday afternoon at their home in Williams Mill road in celebration of the fiftieth wedding anniversary of their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Hunt, formerly of Columbus, Ga. All of the decorations used were of yellow in honor of the golden years which Mr. and Mrs. Hunt have had together. Mrs. William Caffey, of Knoxville, Tenn.; Mrs. Thomas' sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McGeehe, Mrs. Bernard Boykin, Homer Hunt and young Ben Watkins were among the members of the family present. There were united only the closest friends of the families in addition to the relatives.

Mrs. Harless to Be Honored.

Miss Pauline Ware has issued invitations to a bridge-tee for Tuesday, December 12, at her home on Piedmont avenue, in compliment to Mrs. Bert Harless, a recent bride, whose marriage took place last week at Christ Episcopal church in Emporia, Va., and was a brilliant social event.

Mrs. Johnston Entertains At Buffet Supper

Mrs. J. Houston Johnston was hostess last evening at her home on Peachtree place, complimenting the Harwell-Coons wedding party with a buffet supper following the rehearsal at St. Luke's church.

The home was beautifully decorated with ferns and potted plants, placed on the mantels and bookcases. The table in the dining room was overlaid with a cloth of lace, a large basket of pink roses graced the center, encircled by silver candlesticks holding pink unshaded tapers.

Mrs. Johnston received her guests wearing a gown of black chiffon with white trimmings.

Miss Harwell wore a brown velvet dinner dress embroidered in gold. The guest list included only the wedding party and out of town guests.

Miss Boynton Gives Informal Dinner.

Miss Laura Lane, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., who is the guest of Miss Margaret Morgan, and Miss Elizabeth Flinn, of New Rochelle, N. Y., the guests of Miss Mary Sadler, were complimented by Miss Mary Boynton at her home on Peachtree Tuesday evening when Miss Boynton gave an informal dinner for the visitors and their hostesses.

Presidents' Club To Give Dinner.

The executive committee of the Presidents' club announced a dinner for Friday evening, December 15, which will be styled "ladies' night," the event to be staged at Habersham Memorial hall at 11 o'clock, while dinner will be served at 7:30 o'clock. During dinner a cabaret program will be presented and dancing will follow dinner.

Mrs. Woodside Is Hostess.

Mrs. Norman Woodside was hostess at a theater party at the Forth last Thursday in honor of Mrs. Charles Roney, who left Sunday for Vancouver, B. C. The guests included Mrs. W. D. Hoffman, Mrs. Charles Kessnich and Mrs. Schley Howard.

M. RICH & BROS. COMPANY

For Babies Only

The First Christmas

—The first Christmas tree! The first expectation of Santa Claus! The babies are all a-gog and a-gurgle in anticipation. I have spent a week interviewing discriminating infants and have been agreeably surprised to learn that ninety-nine out of every hundred express a decided preference for practical, wearable gifts.

—Hand-crocheted sacques are particularly favored. Lovely ones with pink and blue trimmings of ribbons or daintily embroidered rosebuds are made with either close-fitting or kimono sleeves and are priced from $1.50 to $3.95.

Youthful Fashion.

—Other fashionable garments for the very youngest to be seen in Rich's Baby Shop, on the Second Floor, include:

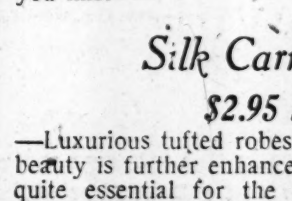

—BATH ROBES of either Beacon robing or elderdown—from $4.50 to $3.95.
—CASHMERE WRAPPERS, scalloped and hand-embroidered, from $1.98 to $5.95.
—FLANNELLETTES KIMONOS—white, of course—bound with pink or blue ribbon and tied likewise, 98c to $1.25.
—BONNETS of crepe de Chine made in boudoir style. Lined and interlined, $2.50 to $5.95.
—And many other desirable garments at many other desirable prices.

Beads for Babies 65c and 75c

—Babies do not approve of ornaments. The truth is that the best babies are self-trimmed—such dewy eyes, such gorgeous round, rosy cheeks, such becoming ringlets. Beads are required for playthings, only, and these are so pretty they have the double value of helping develop one's appreciation of beauty.

—They are of bright colored china and crystal—marble size—and are very securely strung. I feel sure they're germ-proof, so there's no harm done if they look just too appetizing.

—Rattles—babies are such hilarious creatures—may be had from 50c to $1.50. Swimming toys—to make the bath a gala affair—are from 15c to 75c. And, of course, every baby must have dolls. You will find any kind you want in Toytown at any price you like.

Silk Carriage Robes $2.95 to $5.95

—Luxurious tufted robes of pink or blue silk whose beauty is further enhanced by dainty embroidery are quite essential for the babies' out-of-door sports. These range in price from $2.95 to $5.95.

—When you drop in to see these take a look at the tiniest booties in the world—and the most adorable—50c to $1.50. If you bring your baby daughter she will be sure to cry for one of the ivory sets—they include comb and brush, powder box and soap box. The ivory is hand-painted.

"Christmas tide, it is warm and sweet:
A whole world's heart at a Baby's feet."

He is morose indeed who does not find himself responding to the light of the Christmas candle. Who follows where it leads comes to the enchanted land of Santa Claus, winter King of Fairyland, hoary-headed god-father of youth, whose whole life is a delicious game, whose sole burden is a bag of toys and sweets. Would you keep youth with hoary hairs? Let Santa Claus teach you how to be congenial with bears and dolls and babies!

All Saints' Bazaar All Day Thursday

The Christmas bazaar which the Women's guild of All Saints' church will give Thursday in Eggleston hall is an annual event, which is always eagerly anticipated because of the unusual quality of the articles offered for sale, and because of the personnel of those who make them and who will sell them. Mrs. Robert Alston is general chairman of the bazaar, and is to be assisted by Mrs. Dunbar Roy and Mrs. William Kiser, who will be in charge of a booth.

Mrs. Thomas E. Erwin has made delicious fruit cakes, preserves and pickles, which will be placed on sale in Mrs. Harry Atkinson's booth there will be lovely baby clothes for sale, and some of the very unusual and handsome bags of homespun darned with wool embroidery for which Mrs. Atkinson is known.

Mrs. Shanks Is Hostess At Elaborate Reception

The elegant reception at which Mrs. David Shanks entertained Tuesday afternoon at her home at Fort McPherson assembled a number of friends from the army circle and civilian life.

Elaborate Decorations.
The house was elaborately decorated with stately palms and southern shrubs, combined with large baskets of pink and yellow chrysanthemums.

The tea table placed in the dining room was overlaid with a lace cloth and a large silver basket of yellow chrysanthemums, surrounded by silver candlesticks holding yellow shaded tapers. Pouring tea were Mrs. Roscoe Hearn, Mrs. James Reagan, Mrs. Harry Purnell, Mrs. Harry D. Armand, all residents of the army post.

Punch was served in the music room, which was embellished with palms and pink chrysanthemums.

Serving punch were Mrs. John Lytle and Mrs. George Laux.

Assisting Mrs. Shanks were Mrs. Louis Craig, Mrs. Benjamin Smith, Mrs. Ernest Haskell and Mrs. James Hagler.

Music was furnished throughout the calling hours by the band of Fort McPherson.

Mrs. Shanks received her guests in the drawing room, wearing a gown of black chiffon velvet, with a corsage bouquet of orchids and valley lilies.

Mrs. Hearn's gown was black lace with touches of old blue.

Mrs. De Armand wore old blue chiffon trimmed in silver.

Mrs. Reagan was gowned in bronze crepe embroidered in gold.

Mrs. Purnell wore a French blue chiffon draped on one side, and caught with an ornament of pearls.

Mrs. Haskell was gowned in black lace and chiffon.

Over one hundred and fifty guests called during the afternoon.

Music Study Club To Present Program

The Atlanta Music Study club presents at its regular meeting Wednesday morning, December 6, a program dealing with the beginning of dramatic music. Mrs. Earl Sherwood, Jackson, who has arranged the program, will be ably assisted by the voice students of Miss Margaret Hecht.

Mrs. Jackson's discussion of "The Development of the Opera" will be illustrated by arias from early English, French and Italian operas. The singers for the occasion are Mrs. Hazel Whitney Rolfe, Miss Mabel Whitney, Byron Warner, Ernest Allen, Arthur Stokes, Miss Marie Jerome, and Miss Minna Hecker.

The members of the Music club are assured of a program distinctly worth hearing Wednesday morning at the Joseph Habersham chapter house, Piedmont avenue and Fifteenth street.

Miss Jeannette Collins Gives Bridge-Tea.

The bridge-tea at which Miss Jeannette Collins entertained Tuesday afternoon at her home in East Fifteenth street was a lovely complement for Miss Julia Coney, of Savannah, Ga., who is the guest of Mrs. J. W. Malone.

Pink roses and white narcissi were used to decorate the house. Tea was served from a lovely table set forth with a handsome lace centerpiece and silver basket filled with pink roses and narcissi, silver candlesticks with pink candles and comports filled with bonbons.

Bridge novelties were the prizes.

Invited to meet the guests of honor were Misses Fannie Lamar Manley, Harriet Small, Margaret White, Rebekah Harman, Dorothy Hagan, Corday Rice, Lal Lambright and her guest, Katherine Coleman, Louise Inman, Eloise Lewis, Isabel Kemp, Margaret Morgan and her guest, Laura Lane, and Mrs. Orme Campbell.

Edgar Watkins Speaks To League of Women Voters

At the meeting of the executive board of the League of Women voters held Tuesday morning at the league headquarters in the Wesley Memorial church the feature of the meeting was an address by Edgar Watkins, on "Professional Politicians."

Tech Bible Class Gives Ninth Annual Banquet

An interesting social event of the past week was the banquet given by the members of the Tech Bible class, at the North Avenue church home on Peachtree.

The officers of the class include: President, W. B. Johns; vice president, A. F. Stephens; secretary, R. O. Wilhelm; recording secretary, A. L. Carroll; treasurer, R. M. Matson; leader, Mrs. E. E. Egan; sponsors, Miss Elizabeth Goldsmith and Miss Elizabeth Cleveland.

The occasion assembled over a hundred guests, and an interesting program was enjoyed during dinner.

Leslie Karr Patton acted as toastmaster, and among the prominent guests who made addresses were Dr. Marion L. Brittain, Dr. Richard Orme Flinn, Dr. Marion McH. Hull, James Morton, Professor Carol D. C. Beatty.

Quantities of bright fall flowers and autumn foliage, together with stately palms, formed the attractive decorations in the home. The table was effectively arranged and the color motif of yellow and white was carried out in every detail.

Large vases of chrysanthemums were placed at intervals on the table and hand-painted cards marked the place of each guest.

An attractive group of charming young girls acted as waitresses and wore dainty frocks with white aprons and yellow and white head-dresses.

They were: Misses Elizabeth Goldsmith, Elizabeth Cleveland, Lida Mell, Marion Strauss, Leone McGeehee, Evelyn Egan, Mary Goodrich, Coyle Goodrich, Emmy Ficklen and Miss Knight.

Those who attended the meeting were Mrs. H. E. Stockbridge, Mrs. J. H. Gibbs, Mrs. Sanford Gay, Mrs. H. Wilson, Mrs. Paul C. LaBlanc, Mrs. Frederic Rice, Mrs. M. D. Eanhuam, Mrs. William Hunsell, Miss Katherine Koch, Mrs. C. A. Wallace, Mrs. J. T. Stephenson, Mrs. Elliott Cheatham, Mrs. John T. Moody, Miss Lucy Nagel, Mrs. A. G. Helmar, Mrs. E. M. Wolank and Mrs. H. B. Chamberlain.

June Roscoe Will Play In Concert

June Roscoe, of Anderson, S. C., a child of twelve, who has been pronounced a musical genius by some of the leading musicians of the country, will appear in concert on Saturday afternoon, December 9, at 3 o'clock. The recital will be given at the D. A. R. hall, on Fifteenth street, under the sponsorship of the Atlanta Junior Music Club.

This brilliant child prodigy, who has been before the public for three years, plays with a technical finish, sense of tone coloring and beautiful use of the pedal resources in so young a musician, while her feeling for the phrase and inner meaning of the music is almost uncanny. June plays all of her long and difficult programs from memory, seeming to overcome the intricacies of music without effort.

Anderson college, of Anderson, S. C., has adopted June and she matriculated in music there at the age of nine. She has received her musical education there under the guidance of Miss Annie D. Denmark, of the piano faculty. June is the mascot of the college and members of the faculty, pupils and graduates all feel that June, if she continues her musical education, will become one of the country's renowned artists, as has been predicted by many of the critics.

Members of the Junior Music club will be admitted to the concert by their membership. Grown-ups and children not members of the club will be charged 50 cents admission. Tickets will be on sale at the door.

Droit Athletic Club Will Give Dance.

The Droit Athletic club will give one of the most entertaining dances of the season Friday evening at the Droit hall in West End.

The entertainment committee has arranged a program that will be of more interest than any of the special programs arranged before.

The club has given some of the most entertaining dances of the season, especially last Friday evening when a large crowd of members and friends assembled for a special program.

There will be 30 boxes of candy given to the first ladies arriving Friday evening. Carl LaFell's Chicago orchestra will furnish music for the occasion, and dancing will be enjoyed from 9 to 12:30 o'clock.

Among the girls invited are Miss Marie Medlin, Miss Ray Mithews, Miss Laura Jones, Miss Mildred Hardy, Miss Frances Watson, Miss Martha Pope, Miss Mary Morris, Miss Evelyn Watson, Miss Meta Fitchett, Miss Nell Fitchett, Miss Margaret Smith, Miss Sarah Gisham, Miss Margaret Cityburn, Miss Thelma Curbison, Miss Lucie North, Miss Dorothy Smith, Miss Cede Sherrin, Miss Frances Stratter, Miss Augusta Baker, Miss Ruby Shelden, Miss Polly Rainey, Miss Gene Dwyer, Miss Marion Harris, Miss Helen Allen, Miss Eva Mae Bell, Miss Nellie Watts, Miss Alma Collins, Miss Louise Connolly, Miss Dor Lawlor, Miss Loretta Pugh, Miss Laura Henderson, Miss Marjorie Hogan, Miss Kathryn Johnson, Miss Marion Gill, Miss Florine Parks, Miss Virginia Worford, Miss Louise Mills, Miss Margaret Pytrick, Miss Elsie McLaughlin, Miss Frances Shelden, Miss Katherine Redwine, Miss Edna Banknight, Miss Evelyn Banknight, Miss Sara Harwell, Miss Frances Dyer, Miss Minetta Dickson, Miss Dor Lockridge, Miss Pearl Bledsoe, Miss Louise Griffith, Miss Laura Jenkins, Miss Laura McDonald, Miss Bonnie Mae Sellers, Miss Alice Cook, Miss Thelma Scott, Miss Frances Pelly, Miss Margaret Moss, Miss Lottie Loran, Mrs. E. V. Lyle, Mrs. Falkinburg, Mrs. Paul Connolly, Mrs. A. M. Wright, J. W. Medlin, Mrs. Charles Vittur and others.

Mrs. Baxter Entertains At House Warming

Grantville, Ga., December 5.—Mrs. Baxter entertained at a house warming at the Baxter ancestral home in Grantville the past week.

In the receiving line were the recent brides, who are a happy addition to Grantville's social life—Mrs. Donald Banks, who, before her marriage, was Miss Janie Lu Johnson, of Newnan, and who has recently returned from a three months' stay in Europe, and Mrs. Thomas Colley, formerly Miss Polly Jones, of Elberton, who has just returned from her wedding trip to Panama; Mrs. Hugh Macanley, the much-feted guest of Mrs. William Banks.

The Baxter home was beautifully lighted with shaded lights in the drawing room, where the receiving line stood, and the glow of the flickery logs in the big open fireplace added a Christmas tint to the room. In the dining room the table was a Christmas beauty with red carnations and ferns with unshaded tapers in silver candlesticks. The wintery red and green accentuated the Christmas idea. In the library, where coffee was served, the same idea of decoration was carried out.

About two or three hundred guests were present.

St. Timothy's Guild To Sponsor Bazar

A Christmas bazar and musical program will be given on Tuesday afternoon, December 12, at the home of Mrs. Huls Smith, 26 West Boulevard drive, Kirkwood, from 2 to 5 o'clock, by the Guild of St. Timothy's Episcopal mission. Many worthwhile articles at reasonable prices will be on sale, also tea and cake. The public is cordially invited.

Ladies' Aid To Hold Meeting

The Ladies' Aid of the Log Cabin Sunday school will meet at the cabin Thursday, December 7.

The president urges a full attendance as this will be the last meeting of the year and officers for the new year will be elected.

BEAUTY CHATS

By Edna K. Forbes

CHOICE OF SOAPS.

A recent beauty chat on soaps has brought me half a dozen requests for more information. Most women prefer to use soap and hate to give them up even though a plain soap is just as cleansing and much cheaper. Personally, I should say that the most useless place for perfume is in a soap, for when the skin is rinsed, if the rinsing is done properly, there will be no scent left. If using perfumed soap is a pleasure, it is the most transient of pleasures.

The test of a good soap is the lather it makes, but no soap can be expected to lather in hard water. Every bathroom should contain a bottle of ammonia, either the plain kitchen or the perfumed toilet ammonia, so that a few drops of this can be added to every basinful of water. A quarter of a teaspoonful of powdered borax will do as well.

For general efficiency there is nothing that, to my mind, excels castile soap. I purchase this generally in long bars of two or three pounds each, and take care to keep them in the white variety. Then I cut the bar into 2-inch slices and set these away in a warm closet with a tiny air space between them. They last much longer this way, for the soap bought in bars is always soft and uses up quickly. By purchasing quantities of castile soap in the sales it costs me very little.

If castile is too expensive buy white curd soap, which is very cheap, pure and which contains only a small proportion of caustic. If you buy this in bars it can be cut up and treated like castile. If you want a soap that is particularly good for bleaching, buy a white curd or white castile and melt it and add very thick cooked oatmeal in the proportion of one-fifth oatmeal to four-fifths of soap.

William H. D.—Sanitary files may be purchased at most drug stores or at the toilet counters of the department stores. After brushing the feet, and while the skin is still moist, gently use one of these files over the hardened portions of the corns. Never continue this filing to the point of soreness, as this treatment may be repeated as often as there is need for it; and, with most corns, this is all the attention they require. Rub olive oil or vinegar into the corns that are very hard or painful.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be inclosed with the question.

—The Editor.

On Christmas eve, December 24, hundreds of Atlanta children will lift their voices in song to ask aid for the orphaned and homeless children in Georgia who are being cared for at the Georgia Children's home at Ormewood court. The committee in charge of the Christmas carolers are members of the Carolers' association and include, from left to right, bottom row: Mrs. Iola G. Bishop, R. H. Jones, Jr., Mrs. W. A. Albright. Top row: Mrs. Charles Love, Mrs. Arthur P. Norris, Mrs. R. S. Pringle, Mrs. Paul Coleman and Mrs. R. L. Thompson. Others who compose the committee include Mrs. William Candler, Mrs. E. D. Crane, Mrs. Joseph M. High, Mrs. John M. Cooper and Mrs. R. H. Jones, Jr.

Wanted—Two Husbands

—To save one. Young wife whose husband is in the clutches of two unscrupulous flappers desires to meet two bachelors between ages of twenty and forty. Object: Matrimony

BY INEZ KLUMPH

Illustrated by Marguerite Neale

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED.

Cynthia Moore has been blissfully happy with her husband.

Robert Moore, until he received a letter announcing the impending visit of his cousin.

Monica and Lucile Lane. She resolves to make them so popular that she and Roger will see nothing of them. On the day of their arrival she is called to the home of her best friend.

Margaret Calhoun, who is having trouble with her flirtatious husband.

Bruce Calhoun, who goes alone to meet the girls, and when he fails to stop on the way home for Cynthia, she starts home alone.

She finds Roger there with them. Cynthia feels that Roger takes undue interest in his cousin, but is surprised to learn that Bruce understands the situation.

Cynthia and Roger take their guests to a costume ball, where Bruce's devotion to Roger's wife angers Roger. Cynthia and Roger quarrel over it later. Teddy Ewing devotes himself to Lucile, and because of his reputation, Cynthia is worried. Cynthia lunches with Bruce, and sees her husband lunching with Monica.

CHAPTER XX—Black Moments.

During the two weeks that intervened between the fateful day of the mixed luncheon and the night of Cynthia's dance for the girls, she and Roger drifted further and further apart. He was scrupulously polite to her, but when she tried to clear away the mist of misunderstanding that had risen between them he told her that he hadn't the faintest idea what she meant. When she insisted that things were not as they had been before between them, he told her blandly that he saw no changes. At that she burst into tears and he left the room, closing the door so emphatically that the noise itself gave the lie to his words.

She made an especial effort to look well at the dinner-dance. Roger had said frequently that he liked the vivid gowns in which the girls dressed, so Cynthia had departed from her usual custom and ordered a gown of blue and silver brocade. It was cleverly cut and draped to show her slim, beautifully rounded figure, and Cynthia had never been more beautiful.

Mrs. Sumner To Speak To Y.W.C.A. Girls

Mrs. E. Sumner, of New York, who is appearing this week with the Fritz Lieber Shakespearean performers at the Atlanta theater, will speak on Wednesday evening to the girls at the Y. W. C. A. home, 50-62 West Baker street. Mrs. Sumner, in traveling throughout the country in dramatic work, makes it her custom always to stop at Y. W. C. A. homes. She states that she likes the association with the girls and enjoys spending her hours of recreation with them. During the artist's stay in Atlanta she is stopping at the Imperial hotel, as the "Y" home did not have a vacant room to offer her. Wednesday evening, Mrs. Sumner will tell the girls in the local home some of her pleasant impressions of other Y. W. C. A. homes.

The local home affords accommodations for ninety-two girls. The rate for room and board is from $4.75 to $6.50 per week.

Sterilize Baby's Nose

Nose and throat specialists have perfected a very mild and agreeable sterilizing salve called Eucapine, especially designed for the mother's use with her croupy children. It seems that Eucapine is the only non-poisonous germicide that will effectively destroy the catarrh germ which causes colds, croup, sore throat, etc.

Physicians explain that young children are unable to blow the nose and that the secretions accumulated in the throat, internal ear tubes and lungs, causing earache, deafness, denoids, enlarged tonsils and even favoring pneumonia. Physicians are urging mothers to keep the child's nose and throat sterilized with Eucapine, both as a preventive and as a cure. It is said to be very pleasant and the older children soon learn to call for it by name and doctor themselves when they feel a cold coming.

NOTE: The product referred to above is put up in family jars, with full directions, and may be had at any drug store for a half dollar. (adv.)

Dolls and More Dolls

Dolls That Talk
Dolls That Cry and Walk

Baby Dolls
Lady Dolls
Character Dolls

The heart's desire of every little girl is a doll—and more dolls! Our doll family is so complete that Santa Claus will find dolls here to gratify every wish of any little prospective "doll mother."

Here is a list of some of them—much better to come, tho, and see them all!

Dolls That Really Talk—The very last arrivals in "Make-Believe-Land" are these most fascinating dolls that really, truly talk!

There are good, big dolls, too—dressed in the loveliest little-girl frocks and bonnets of blue or pink.

A very cunningly concealed little phonograph on their "insides" makes them talk most realistically! Extra records may be had also.

These dolls are priced.....$15.00 and $25.00

Madame Hendren Dolls—Character dolls they are called, because their wonderful life-like features are really expressive of beautiful baby character.

These dolls have the patent Lloyd voice—crying or speaking in remarkably life-like tones.

Some have really-true hair and clothes of the loveliest little baby-like frocks. Some are priced as low as.....$1.98

And others up to about.....$10.00

Little China Dolls—The kind little girls just adore to dress-up themselves—jointed limbs and beautiful little features. About 4 and 5 inches high. These are priced at.....50c and 75c

Mibbs Character Dolls—Just a little older than the babies. Wonderfully life-like expressions and dressed in pink or blue rompers or most fascinating dresses of organdies, dotted Swisses and such materials.

These are shown at.....$2.50 and More

Brother and Sister Dolls—Quaint little playmates dressed in sturdy rompers of chambray or gingham with little caps or hats to match. These are priced, each.....$1.25

Sleepytime Dolls—Soft, cuddly dollies that are guaranteed to bring on the Sandman in short order! Made of stockinette and other soft materials, just for little tots to hug up close at sleepytime. They are shown at prices from.....75c to $1.98

Go-to-sleep Dolls—"My Adorable Doll"—the makers have called them. With hair and eyelashes and eyes that close when dolly is laid down for a nap.

There are many sizes of the go-to-sleep dolls, ranging in price from.....$1.50 on up to $9.50

Lovely Lady Dolls—Charming "lady dolls"—these with real curls of blonde or brunette locks that may be "brushed" and "done up!" Bodies of bisque or kid or combined of the two. One may provide these with the most lavishly fascinating wardrobes if so inclined.

Genuine French Dolls at.....$1.50 to $9.75

"Little Flirt" Dolls—With the sauciest of blue eyes looking out at the most "vampish" angle! Completely dressed, with hair and cunning little bonnets. Each in a box.....$1.39

Funny Acrobat Dolls—The quaintest sort of little fellows in long-legged suits of velvet or satin in bright colors with crocheted trimmings. Funny wool hair and very tall pointed caps over the most absurd little painted cloth faces.

They twist into every kind of ridiculous position without breaking. They are priced at.....$1.25 and $2.50

The Clown Doll—A most absurd little fellow, quite limber-limbed and dressed in parti-colored clown costumes with big buttons. Funny painted faces of stockinette. Clown dolls are priced.....$1.25

French Character Dolls—Quite extreme types these little ladies in most ultra costumes of felt in the gayest "sport" shades.

There is the "Beach Girl" and "Kiki" and "Queen of Hearts" and other characters. They have wonderful features and are altogether most attractive.

They are shown at.....$8.95 and up

Soft "Cuddly" Animals—Cats, bunnies, dogs and things of stockinette or velvet that may be "squeezed up" and knocked about without breaking. There's a place for one or more in every doll family. Priced.....75c and up

You should use your senses of sight, touch, taste and smell in judging foods; use these also in buying food. For this reason, why you should go personally to market, in buying any foods, consider these points: Order a definite amount in pounds or the measure used; find out the unit price and find out the total figure out your price according to that unit; see that correct scales and measures are used, and then, when you pay, find out the exact amount you paid for is delivered.

It is highly important to have a weighing scale in the kitchen to check up measures and weights given to you when shopping. This helps you in seeing if the tradespeople with whom to deal.

Quotations.

Chicago, December 5.—Wheat, up

derwent a setback in price today largely as a result of increasing selling, due to stock market weakness. The close in wheat was unsettled, 1-8-

Corn lost 3-8c to 11-4c, oats finished 1-4c off to 1-8c advance, and provisions down 5c to 15c.

Wheat showed a downward tendency at the outset, but this appeared to be, by way of response to lower quotations at Liverpool, and soon was more than offset by news of full

...ther rain interfering with the Argentine harvest. Besides a leading crop expert issued a statement that domestic winter wheat acreage had de-

Washington counted also to some extent as a temporary bullish factor.

In the absence of any aggressive buying, wheat prices dropped quickly. Toward the end of the day, however, pressure diminished and wheat was rallying again at the close.

Big elevator interests were said to have been among the principal sellers of corn. Houses with eastern connections also were letting go of the December delivery.

Provisions were governed by the course of hog values.

Shakespearean Comedy Still Beats the Moderns

To say that an Atlanta theater audience laughed at one of William Shakespeare's comedies more boisterously and in more whole-hearted enjoyment than at any of the modern farces, comedies or other fun-making vehicles of the present day stage sounds like indulging in airy persiflage.

Yet that's just what an audience at the Atlanta theater did Tuesday night when Fritz Leiber and his splendid company presented "The Taming of the Shrew." A Shakespearean comedy, which proved to be beyond question the big "fun show" of the season.

It's unusual, almost, to say that a comedy written more than four hundred years ago should be produced here in the heart of the twentieth century and still be as true a mirror of the foibles and little weaknesses of humanity as the very latest satire from the metropolitan stage. Yet this was demonstrated to the complete satisfaction of the audience Tuesday night which laughed and roared at the ludicrous situations in this inimitable comedy until its collective sides fairly ached.

"Lightning" is the outstanding success in things theatrical—nothing like it has been known to the general public. "Lightning" has a record of 1291 performances at the Gaiety Theater, New York, and is now on its second year in Chicago where it will remain, judging from the capacity houses, until summer again. The company presenting the play here is not a second company, but divides the territory among the larger cities.

Paul Whiteman's Orchestra

At Loew's Grand. Paul Whiteman's "Rhapsody of Rhythm" orchestra, which has been delighting audiences at Loew's Grand theater since the first of the week, closes its Atlanta engagement with tonight's performance. Without doubt, it is one of the finest organizations of its kind in the United States and its coming to Loew's Grand is a source of great pleasure to the music lovers of this city who have listened to the many excellent recordings made by this orchestra by the Victor Phonograph company. Under the able direction of Alex. Hyde, a musician from the ground up and master of the violin, the orchestra has been a most welcome headliner on this week's bill.

"Oliver Twist."

"Oliver Twist," at the Metropolitan, with Jackie Coogan as the star, is a classic. It is faultless in detail, genuine in every note. It is simply Dickens, with all the tenderness that abounded in the heart of the great author and student of human nature, with the pathos that constantly touches life; with the delicious comedy that leavens all that the great Dickens wrote. Had the characters themselves stepped out of the book to live their story on the screen, the result could not have been more real, more genuine, appealing and convincing than that great little artist, Jackie Coogan, and his superb supporting cast make it.

"Tailor-Made Man."

Beau Brummel had nothing on John Paul Bart, as he is portrayed by Charles Ray in the screen version of "A Tailor-Made Man." Mr. Ray's first feature for the United Artists, now playing at the Rialto theater.

City-Manager Form Of Government Lauded

By Mrs. R. L. Turman

Urging the city-manager form of municipal government as far superior to the present "antiquated, buck-passing, inefficient" form, Mrs. R. L. Turman, speaking before the Atlanta Parent-Teacher citizenship committee Tuesday morning at city hall, traced the improvement in city government to the adoption of the commission and city-manager forms.

"Two hundred cities have adopted the city-manager form," she declared, "and not one has ever returned to the old system."

Mayor Key stressed the idea of character in citizenship and declared that people should obey the law because they recognize its value and not because they are forced to do so. "Citizens are forced to be good citizens," he stated.

He rapped mob law as a destructive force, and declared that law is not accorded the respect in this country that they demand in other lands. This fact is attributable to neglect on the part of citizens to properly inculcate the fundamentals of good citizenship into their children, he added.

Mrs. J. E. Andrews is state chairman of the citizenship committee, and Mrs. J. C. McElhenny is city chairman. Representatives of schools and committees about Atlanta were in attendance.

PERSONAL

swaggering air to his Petruccio that is irresistible. To see him in gay and mock-heroic part it is hard to conceive that he is the same man who appeared the evening before as the sinister and perfidious "Macbeth."

PERSONAL

Is Strong Company. "The Taming of the Shrew" served also to bring out the fact in bold relief that Mr. Leiber's company is one without a weak spot. It takes concerted acting and a lot of it to produce such a play with as splendid success as was scored Tuesday night and all the members in the cast acquitted themselves admirably.

Miss Oliver Oliver, like Mr. Leiber, was called upon to appear in a role far different from her "Lady Macbeth," and she responded by showing her sterling merit as an actress. She had a difficult task cut out for her and she performed it well. "Katherine," the shrew, she shared first honors with Mr. Leiber.

Several of the other members of Mr. Leiber's company were given larger opportunities Tuesday night than in the previous offering. Miss Virginia Bronson was ideal as "Blanca" and her youthful beauty was shown to advantage in this role.

Robert Strauss demonstrated that a capable comedian can get a lot of fun out of a Shakespearean play. Others largely responsible for the success of the comedy were Richard Allen, as "Lucentio" John Burke, as "Fleming," Louis Leibel, as "Hortensio," Harold Winston, as "Biondello," Philip D. Quinn, as "Baptista," Joseph Singer, as "Tranio," Carol Kohl, as a widow; Leonard Gordon, as a tailor, and other members of the cast in the prologue whose names did not appear on the program.

Those who missed "The Taming of the Shrew" missed one of the best plays of the present engagement. The audience Tuesday night liked it so well that every person remained seated until after the final curtain, which had responded to a certain call, which is about the most unusual thing that has happened at the Atlanta theater in a decade.

—Paul Stevenson.

COMMITTEE MEASURE ACTION IS WITHHELD*Mayor to Confer With Department Heads Affected.
May Veto Traffic Law.

Before acting on legislation passed by city council Monday giving three committees, including the police committee, which will be appointed next year by Mayor Walter A. Sims, power to nominate their respective department heads, Mayor Key will ask those affected what they think about it.

He was withholding action on the measure Tuesday and said he didn't know whether to approve or veto it until he discusses it with these men. Department heads affected are chief of police, city health officer, chief of the sanitary department and general manager of parks. The mayor will call them together for a conference, probably Wednesday morning.

The general impression prevailed at city hall Tuesday that the mayor will veto the traffic ordinance adopted Monday. He refused to discuss the measure at all, but the rumor was current that he felt unkindly disposed toward erection of "safety aisles" in the streets, which plan is favored by the Georgia Railway and Power company, and that he feels adverse to making Whitehall street non-parking.

Merchants on that street put up a strong fight against the movement to her parking, claiming that their business would be seriously injured.

POLICE BAFFLED
BY CHLOROFORM
BANDIT, THEY SAY

Baffled completely in their efforts to solve the burglary last Sunday night in which Mrs. Ward Neri, of 74 Hilbert street, was chloroformed while listening to a radio concert in her bedroom, and the house ransacked, police admitted Tuesday they have been unable to find a single clue pointing to the identity of the robbers.

The burglars after applying a drug thought to be chloroform to Mrs. Neri's face, escaped with $100 in cash. Examination by detectives of several persons, including the negro maid, who has been with the family for a number of years, resulted in a statement that the mystery was no nearer solution.

Delightful Event*Personality and a master's touch

Personality and a master's touch made Maud Morgan's concert, at the Lucile King Thomas auditorium, Tuesday evening, one of the splendid musical events of the season. It was the greater force, the exquisite technique of the artist—for in harp playing the beauty of tone is entirely dependent upon touch—and Maud Morgan's touch was wonderful—or the thoroughly captivating personality of the musician.

Besides playing solos, Miss Morgan showed her adaptability by leading an ensemble playing of a group of Atlanta harpists: Mrs. Mary Griffith Dobbs, Mrs. William Butt Griffith, Miss Lillian LeComte, Mrs. L. Ella Griffith Bedard, Miss Winifred Mahoney, Mrs. Albert Adams, Mrs. Parent and Mrs. Frank Marsh, who rendered the "Largo" of Handel splendidly indeed, bringing out the crescendo in a masterly manner.

She also accompanied in several sections. Mrs. Hortense D'Arbly, who shared honors with her on the program, Mrs. D'Arbly's most pleasing numbers were found in the French group of songs, the exquisite "Si me venaient des ailes," and the song from the old French, "Vieux Aurore," so full of movement and grace. Her voice lacked in volume it gained in feeling and charm.

Miss Morgan showed sustained power throughout the program. Her work ensemble with the other harpists and in duet with Mrs. Mary Griffith Dobbs, who, by the way, is a harpist that Atlanta should be proud of, and also in solo, showed a certain finish, an assurance, a technique that was superior to most. Her remarkable touch was especially manifest in the solos, "Lamento," by Heselmans, and "La Zingarella" by Oberthurin which one moment she struck her chords with a vim that spoke life and gusto, and the next seemed to stroke the strings and call forth the most gentle sound. She was a splendid support in all her accompaniments, also, and in Schubert's "Ave Maria" did really excellent work. She drew forth sounds from her chords with as clear as crystal, and ended verily in a breath of melody.

Mrs. L. Ella Bedard did splendid work as accompanist at the piano.

NEWBORN RELIEF WORK IS DONE
BY RED CROSS

B. Carter Taylor, Red Cross field director at Camp Bragg, Fayetteville, N. C., has taken charge of the relief work in Newbern, the North Carolina city recently devastated by fire.

Rehabilitation and relief work is going on nicely and every assistance possible is being rendered the people of the fire in the stricken area. A national guard company is on duty to prevent looting and outside help is being accepted under a new and definite policy of relief.

Senator Simmons and the mayor announced Tuesday that the work is progressing in fine shape.

Washington, December 5.—(By Constitution Lensed Wire.)—When the next legislative rivers and harbors bill is considered by the senate an amendment will be offered by Senator Harris, of Georgia, providing authority for an examination and survey of the north Newport river, on the Georgia coast, running near Richboro, the senator announced today.

The chief of engineers informed Senator Harris that the war department could take no action until congress gave specific authority.

TREGOE TO ADDRESS
ATLANTA CREDIT MEN

The Atlanta Association of Credit Men, a branch of the national association, will have their annual meeting at the chamber of commerce on December 14 at 6:30 o'clock in the evening.

J. H. Tregoe, national secretary-treasurer, will address the audience and the national convention that will be held in Atlanta December 12 to 15, 1923, will be discussed.

Those attending this meeting must secure their reservations not later than Thursday of this week.

DECATUR CITIZENS GO TO POLLS TODAY

Decatur, Ga., December 5.—(Special.)—From all indications the "sun-set" election Decatur has experienced in many days will be held tomorrow, when three commissioners will be elected for the 2-year term beginning January 1.

The only names appearing upon the ballot are those of the three incumbents whose terms expire this year. They are J. A. Hall, William Schley Howard and Charles A. Matthews, who, with Scott Candler, chairman, and Walker White, constitute the present board of commissioners.

No opposition candidates have been announced, and it is expected that these three commissioners will be re-elected in an uncontested election.

The polling station is in the town hall, and the polls will be open from 6 o'clock in the morning to 6 o'clock in the evening.

WE SELL FORD CARS8115 ISLE STREET CO.—Ivy 807*SHIP SUBSIDY BILL
MAY BE DROPPED*Administration Leaders
Consider Abandoning Pet Measure to Avoid Extra Session Congress.

Washington, December 5.—Administration senators are preparing to drop the ship subsidy bill, and if such procedure will hasten the passage of the several appropriation bills and thus avoid an extra session of the 68th congress, beginning March 4.

Their policy hereafter—and President Harding is said to concur in it—will be: Minimum legislation and maximum speed.

Accordingly, it now appears that the president's annual message to congress to be delivered Thursday or Friday will recommend three major pieces of legislation:

1. The passage of the appropriation bills.
2. The enactment of further rural credits facilities.
3. Some sort of revision of the immigration laws to meet the reported shortage of common labor.

Fear Filibuster.

This program, it is learned authoritatively, is believed by administration leaders to be sufficiently limited to permit of accomplishment by March 4, 1923. Senator Cummins' plan for opening the fight over the transportation act and the chamber of commerce labor board now seems to have been dropped.

Although administration senators fear certain they have enough votes to pass the ship subsidy bill, at the same time they realize that the opposition of congressmen, including a republican farm bloc members as well as democrats, will do everything possible to prevent a vote, and, anxious to get away from Washington by March 4, the administration leaders are reluctant to stir up any controversy that would delay passage of the appropriations bills and rural credits legislation.

The appropriation bills have been taken care of in the budget message.

Rural Credits.

The rural credits legislative program was tentatively agreed to by the farm bloc and administration senators at the white house Thanksgiving day.

The immigration recommendations, it was learned at the white house Tuesday, are the result of pressure from industrial interests throughout the country who protest the shortage of common labor such as is supplied by the immigrant. The problem has been discussed in cabinet meetings, but no decision has been reached as to whether the immigration quotas should be increased. One solution offered the president would encourage rural labor to drift into the cities until the labor shortage—reported particularly in the building trades—has been met.

POLICE DISCOVER

Cody, John Crenshaw, J. J. Sweeney and E. S. Acree, who were informed that Black was running a blind tiger and had a quantity of whisky at his home, a two-gallon can of whisky was found in the negro's possession and he was placed under arrest.

While making a search of the house the officers came upon the silks and other articles. They proceeded to headquarters and later obtained a search warrant and returned for the property.

In the meantime Jessie Scott and his brother, attracted the attention of officers at the Terminal station by their unusual actions. A large package containing silk goods was found in the automobile in which the two negroes were seated. They told the officers they were hired to convey the package to 63 Pulliam street by another party.

All of the property, which is thought to be stolen, was removed to police station.

ROOMING HOUSE INMATE IS SHOT; WON'T TELL HOW

Suffering from a pistol wound in her right leg below the knee, a young woman who gave her name as Mrs. J. K. Gilbert, of 175 Ormond street, was found in a rooming house at 100 Ivy street at midnight Tuesday by the proprietor, J. A. Wilkerson, and taken to Grady hospital.

Wilkerson told police he was awakened by the report of two shots from the room occupied by the young woman. Going to the door he attempted to open it, it was locked. From within he heard the moans of the wounded woman, and was on the verge of battering down the door when she crawled to it and unlocked it from the inside.

At Grady hospital Mrs. Gilbert stated she did not know what had happened, and she refused to discuss the shooting other than to say she did not fire the pistol, which was found in the room with two chambers empty.

J. K. Gilbert, husband of the woman, was questioned by police. He stated that his wife had left home Monday night in his automobile and that he had not seen her since.

Simone Seeks Reconciliation
With His Wife*Brewster - Corliss Palmer
Love Tangle Takes Queer Turns—Simone Talks.

Macon, Ga., December 5.—(Special.)—James Simone, stepfather of Miss Corliss Palmer, whose wife and children are now domiciled in the home of his five sisters, Mrs. Kate Cooper, Brewster, millionaire magazine publisher, at Morristown, N. J., today wrote his wife, seeking a reconciliation.

In discussing a letter he wrote to Mrs. Simone, Simone said, "I wrote an endeavoring letter to her today, asking about her health, and that of the children, including Miss Corliss Palmer and her sister, Miss Linnies Palmer, and even sent my best regards to Eugene V. Brewster. That's the truth, I even sent my regards to Brewster."

Simone said he is in a peculiar position, and that he does not want to make things so embarrassing for his wife and himself that there cannot be a reconciliation.

"I sent away from me all though I tried to persuade her to remain here," said Simone, "but some day I hope she will return."

Simone was asked what had become of his household goods, and he replied that before his wife left to her daughter, Corliss, she sold everything in the house, including the bed he had been sleeping in, without getting his consent to do so.

Asked if he contemplated a suit against Brewster for breaking up his family, Simone said he was not thinking of that matter over, but added he wants to hear from his wife and children before making a move.

"I'm not going to New York," he said, "if I should, I'd get in jail, or something. That's a good place to stay away from."

Simone said he did not want to see Grady, either, for they said he talked too much.

The Grady referred to is a brother of Corliss Palmer who also was made homeless when his mother and sister pulled up stakes and went to New York. Grady is said to be in Florida, but just where, Simone says he does not know.
